

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

MR. DINSMORE, of Noxubee, announced the death of his colleague, Hon. J. S. MADISON, and said:

Mr. Speaker and Representatives: Take the wing of the morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness, or lose thyself in the continuous woods where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound save his own dashing. Yet the dead are there.

Visit the humble home of the poorest inhabitant of the earth, and the inevitable messenger of fate has left the vacant chair. Enter the abode of those who have risen to eminence in Church or State, and like the woodman in the forest, the unwelcome visitor has removed the giant oak, leaving an empty void. Such is the condition in Noxubee and in Mississippi to-day, caused by the death of my colleague, Hon. JAMES S. MADISON.

He was born in Alabama about forty-eight years ago, moved to Mississippi when a mere child, and died in Mobile on December 25, 1893, where he had gone to consult a specialist. He was an extensive planter—a substantial and well-to-do man, who had the confidence of his neighbors, as well as all with whom he came in contact. He was loyal to his friends, and I may be permitted to say he was deeply attached to the members of this House, and took pleasure in remarking upon his friendships here. He was generous to those who opposed him, and ready to assign proper motives and to forgive.

He was a true and tender husband and father. He was a devoted son, and many of us have watched with what love and affection he showed his aged father around about this capitol. A happy home was his. He was a good citizen and respected the law. He was a Christian gentleman. He was a safe, accurate, reliable and useful lawmaker.

But he is no more. The winter of life has no returning spring. The lamp of the statesman is extinguished forever. The silver chord is loosened. The golden bowl is broken. The dust has returned to the earth as it was, and the spirit unto God who gave it.

The committee appointed to notify the Senate that the House was organized and ready for business reported that they had performed the duty assigned them, and the committee was discharged.

A committee from the Senate was received, which informed the House that the Senate was duly organized and ready for the transaction of business.

Mr. McGuire offered the following concurrent resolution :

Resolved by the House, the Senate concurring, That a committee of three on the part of the House and — on the part of the Senate be appointed to notify the Governor that the Legislature is regularly organized, and ready to receive any communication that he may see fit to submit.

Adopted.

The Speaker appointed Messrs. Street, Williamson and Jackson as the committee on the part of the House.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

SENATE CHAMBER, }
January 2, 1894. }

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed by the Senate to inform the House that the Senate has concurred in House resolution providing for joint committee to inform the Governor of the organization of the Legislature, and names as said committee on part of the Senate, Messrs. Kendrick, Dockery and Love.

Respectfully,

WM. HENRY, Sec'y Senate.

Mr. Potter offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Speaker of this House be and is hereby authorized to appoint two pages in addition to the four appointed by the preceding Speaker, Hon. H. M. Street.

Adopted.

The committee appointed on the part of the House in conjunction with the Senate committee, to inform the Governor that both Houses had been duly organized and were now ready for the transaction of business, reported that they had performed the duty assigned them.

The report was received and the committee discharged.

On motion of Mr. Street, the House at 1:35 P. M. took a recess until 2:45 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met pursuant to adjournment, Speaker Vardaman in the chair.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The Governor's Message was received at the hands of his Private Secretary and ordered read:

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

In discharging the duty enjoined upon the Governor to give the Legislature information of the state of the Government from time to time, and recommend for consideration such measures as may be deemed necessary and expedient, I must necessarily be restricted by the scope of your powers and duties under the limitations imposed by the Constitution.

You have assembled under that provision of the Constitution which declares you shall not remain in session longer than thirty days, unless the Governor shall extend your sitting, by proclamation in writing, and that none but appropriation and revenue bills shall be considered except such other matters as may be acted upon at an extraordinary session called by the Governor. At such session the action of the Legislature is confined to the consideration of the subjects submitted in the Governor's proclamation; to impeachments, examination into the accounts of state officers, and to such other matters as the Governor may in writing submit to them while in session.

In presenting for your information a brief summary of the affairs of the state and of the operations of the various departments of the government during the past two years, the necessary legislation by way of adequate appropriations and wholesome revenue provisions will be recommended, and only such other legislation as the exigency of the time seems to demand, and such as, in my judgment, cannot be postponed to the next regular session without injury to citizens and communities, or without detriment to the state at large.

With a new constitution and a new code of laws enacted under it, we may reasonably expect to find omissions and errors which should be supplied and corrected. These are not numerous in the Annotated Code, but there are some of sufficient importance to demand immediate amendment, and to them I shall invite your careful attention.

COURTS AND JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

In some of the judicial districts there is complaint of inequality of the work required, and it is insisted that the law should be so amended as to equalize the work. I therefore submit the question for your consideration, and will co-operate with you in such changes in the districts of the Supreme, Circuit and Chancery Courts as may be just to all.

I invite your attention, also, to a conflict in the time for holding the circuit court in the counties of Pontotoc and Tishomingo; and to the fact that no time is fixed for holding the Chancery Court in the counties of Smith and Wayne. There may be other conflicts and omissions that have escaped me, and there are some counties in which the time allowed for holding the courts is not sufficient. I recommend such amendments as the public interests require.

In this connection your attention is called to the failure on the part of the Legislature at its last session to make provision for the compensation of special Judges and Chancellors, and for District Attorneys pro tempore in case of sickness of the District Attorney. There are several instances where services have been rendered by special Judges and Chancellors and District Attorneys pro tempore, during the last two years, for which no compensation has been received. The compensation to which they are entitled is fixed by the law but no appropriation was made to meet the demand. I recommend the necessary appropriation to liquidate the claims already due, and a sufficient maximum appropriation for such purpose for the current biennial period.

Chapter 19 of the Annotated Code provides for an elaborate and expensive method of taking the census in 1895, and every ten years thereafter. The constitution requires an enumeration of all the inhabitants and qualified electors, and that certainly should be made; but it is difficult to see what good will accrue from the census provided for, which unpublished will be waste paper, and if published, will not be read or produce any good results. The cost will be heavy and the results nothing profitable. It would be well to repeal Chapter 19 of the Code and substitute for it the simplest and least expensive method of the enumeration required by the constitution. The service, I think, can be performed by the tax assessors at very little expense. If the law remains as it is, provision must be made for the extraordinary expense of executing it.

Brokers dealing in the goods of merchants and manufacturers of other states have not been required to pay tax because of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Robbins v. Memphis, 120 U. S. Rep., 489, in which it was held that such taxation was forbidden by the Interstate Commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States, but under a more recent decision of that court, Ficklen v. Shelby County, 145 U. S., 1, such brokers resident and doing business at a place in a state may be taxed. I ask that you give this matter due consideration and take such action as you may think proper.

CONVICTS IN COUNTY JAILS.

The complaint is so general from all parts of the State arising from the operation of the law in relation to convicts in county jails that I deem it my duty to submit Chapter 23 of the Annotated Code to your consideration for revision. The law seems to present so many objections, I shall make no specific recommendations but leave the matter with you for such changes in the law as may be reasonable to the convicts and just to the taxpayers of the county.

The law on the subject of the assessment and collection of taxes on the capital stock of corporations and joint stock companies other than banks, needs amendment. No reason is perceived why the law applicable to banks should not be applied to all similar corporations or associations. Late decisions of our Supreme Court suggest the propriety, if not the necessity, of some change in the law to make it clear and explicit on this subject.

The aim of the law is to tax the capital stock at its market value. In some instances the whole is invested in visible property subject to taxation. In such cases, as held by our Supreme Court, the assessed value of real and personal property should be deducted from the value of the stock, and thus avoid double taxation; but this was a deduction by the court on the assumption that it was not the design of the legislature to impose double taxes. All uncertainty should be removed by the necessary amendment of the law.

The law authorizes counties and municipalities to issue bonds bearing interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent. Some have already been issued, and it may be confidently expected that many more will be. As the law is these bonds are subject to taxation, and there are few buyers among the citizens, because only banks, which are not taxed on bonds held by them, as individuals are, can afford to hold them and honestly give them in for assessment. An individual in one of our towns where taxes are two and a half or three per cent. does not regard even a seven per cent. bond as a desirable investment. The consequence is that only banks and non-residents can afford to buy, and with a very limited number of buyers, the bonds are salable only when bearing the highest rate of interest; and even then difficulty is often experienced in placing them. Were these free from all taxation they would be eagerly sought by many, and could be readily sold at par when bearing six per cent., or perhaps less. The increased number of persons to whom they would be a desirable holding would insure ready sale and at reduced interest, which would be a great gain to the taxpayers who have to pay them; and very little would be lost to the treasuries in the shape of taxes on bonds, for it is well known that few of even taxable bonds are found on the assessment rolls. There is no doubt that with exemption from taxation counties and towns which now have out bonds bearing seven per cent. may easily float at par bonds with interest at six or even five per cent., whereby to raise money to pay off outstanding obligations.

The recommendation here made is wholly in the interest of the burden bearers, who in saving even one per cent. for a series of years, will be gainers to an extent far beyond any benefit to arise from futile efforts to collect taxes on bonds, most of which will ever be beyond reach for the purpose of taxation.

I invite your attention to the necessity of some provision for immediate and summary investigation of homicides. Human life is by far too cheap. Menlayers often go unwhipt of justice. One reason is that in a few months after its commission the enormity of the crime is forgotten and swallowed in sympathy for the imprisoned murderer. Witnesses are scattered, often gotten out of the way, and public opinion is molded by the well directed and persistent efforts of the friends and followers of the accused. Men are disqualified as jurors and the difficulty of due administration of justice is greatly increased by delay. There is no reason why all the circumstances of a homicide, or other great crime, should not be immediately investigated and judicially determined. Court should meet in as few days as possible after the commission of the crime charged, empanel a grand jury, and inquire into the charge. If an indictment is found let a speedy and impartial trial be had forthwith, or within as few days as the ends of justice may require. The innocent cannot be too soon delivered, or the guilty too quickly condemned to suffer the just punishment of his offense.

Nothing calls so loudly for correction as the present miscarriage of justice in trials for homicide. It is the source of many evils. It breeds mobs and lynch law. It encourages crime by begetting hope of escape from punishment. A man of means and many friends, able to call to his aid all the advantages to defeat justice, has his chance to success greatly increased by time to bring his many resources to bear upon the community; and this has led to the reproach that a man of means may slay his fellow man with impunity. It is, alas! too true, as often exemplified.

One of the most effective checks to this abuse would be to provide for an immediate opening of court to be held for the case as a coroner's inquest is held, the sole business of which should be that case, and to draw a grand jury and if indictment is found, a special venire to try the case then or in such short time as justice may require. It could be adjourned from day to day according to the exigency, and the case tried. The circuit judge of the district or of some other district might be required to hold the court, unless the regular term was very soon to be held there. The details can easily be arranged for an immediate investigation with every safeguard for the protection of the rights of the accused, and a trial had according to the constitution and laws.

A great evil attending criminal trials of the highest grade is the persistent and successful effort of a large class of persons, who would be good jurors, to avoid jury service, especially in capital cases. One great reason for this is the fact that a capital trial exhibits twelve prisoners in the jury box trying one at the bar, who often is less closely imprisoned than the jurors. Were the law changed and the jury trusted and allowed the same liberty the judge has, to go to meals and to rest at night, better results would follow. A trial in a capital case then, would not, as now, be a terror to a decent man. Men would not then shrink with dread from being accepted as jurors, and would not intentionally disqualify themselves to escape the odious service, made odious by the feature here mentioned. No fear need be entertained that bad results will follow such reforms. The charge of the court to avoid approach on the case would have the desired effect with all fit jurors. That virtue which requires a constant guard is of little worth. A jury represents the people of the county, is taken from the different vocations and from different parts of the county, and under any system will reflect in the jury box prevailing public sentiment, and this cannot be avoided. The best representatives of the community should be secured for jury service. Why should not the popular branch of the court be treated with decent consideration?

Since the adoption of the Annotated Code, complaint has been made that the boundaries of some counties have been changed in some instances by mistake in defining them. I recommend the re-enactment of Section 98, of the Code of 1880, a valuable provision which, I think, was inadvertently omitted from the Code of 1892.

Your honorable body, at your last session, changed the law regulating appeals in criminal cases as to supersedeas of the judgment, so as to relieve the party convicted from securing the cost of maintenance in jail pending the appeal. The result is, every convict is invited and encouraged to appeal for delay and enjoy comfortable support in jail, at the expense of the public he has outraged. Surely, after conviction in a circuit court the presumption should be indulged that the convict is guilty, and he should commence to endure the sentence, notwithstanding his appeal, unless he gives security for his support in jail pending appeal. Remaining in jail is costly to the tax payers. It increases chance of escape by the convict. It maintains him in unproductive idleness, and it is not for his good any more than for that of the public. The cost to the people of the state of maintaining prisoners in jail is a heavy item of expense, and this change of the law, while it has greatly increased the burdens of the people, has been productive of no good. I recommend the restoration of the latter clause of section 2335, of the code of 1880, which requires the convict to give the sheriff satisfactory security to pay the jail fees to accrue pending the appeal, if the judgment appealed from shall be affirmed.

Section 136 of the Annotated Code requires a sheriff with an attachment in his hands to issue a command to himself to summon persons as garnishees, and then to command himself to execute and report how he has obeyed his own command—a cumbersome, needless and ridiculous practice. The attachment should be authority and impose the duty to summon all persons reported to the officer as desirable garnishees without the red-tape feature named.

Section 327 of the Code, in disregard of the burdens of the taxpayers, authorizes the payment of a salary of five hundred dollars to the clerk of the board of supervisors as county auditor, which is largely in excess of fair and reasonable compensation for the service to be rendered.

Section 634 requires a general docket in the circuit court, a thing entirely unnecessary, and unheard of before the adoption of the code of 1892. Every case in the circuit court is docketed either on the appearance, issue or state docket, and why have another? In Chancery a general docket is needed, because cases there are not put on a docket until they reach a certain stage of advancement, but at law a general docket is wholly unnecessary, troublesome and expensive, and should be dispensed with.

Section 844, by its latter clause, provides that the "legal title to the stock and the beneficial interest therein shall remain in the person appearing to be the owner by the books of the corporation, as to creditors, until after a bona fide transfer has been made on the books." This provision hampers the negotiating of stock certificates, changes the general law of stocks and reduces the value thereof. When a loan is desired upon certificates of stock, even for a few days, it cannot be obtained until the transfer of ownership shall have been made on the books of the corporation. The latter clause of this section should be repealed.

Section 921 is not in strict accord with section 165, of the constitution which seems to authorize the trial of any cause by a judge with whom the parties may be connected by affinity or consanguinity, or where he may be interested in the same, provided the judge and all the parties consent.

Section 1214 should be so amended as not to prohibit the sale by druggists of sulphate or other preparation of opium when the preparation does not contain more than ten per cent. of the poisonous drug, and thus enable the druggist to sell the harmless domestic remedies indispensable in every family without incurring the penalty imposed by said section.

The requirement of section 1847 to keep a secret record of all indictments is useless, troublesome and expensive. The state existed nearly a century and the necessity for such record was never discovered before. The loss or destruction of an indictment does not, in any way, benefit the accused. For a third of a century, it has been the law that the loss or destruction of an indictment should add one year in which to find a new one, and nothing is easier than to find an indictment when there is sufficient evidence to convict.

The abrogation of section 1593, of the code of 1880, subjects every witness to the liability of being dragged from the Tennessee line to the Gulf of Mexico even in the most trivial case, without any security for compensation or reimbursement for expenses. This very just provision should be restored.

The ruinous compensation allowed garnishees by section 2153, may give rise to great abuse, is wholly uncalled for and ought to be modified or repealed.

There is something radically wrong in the matter of costs in criminal proceedings in the courts of justices of the peace. It often happens that the alleged offender is fined from one to five dollars and the bill of cost runs up to twenty-five or thirty and sometimes forty dollars or more, and the result is an indefinite term on the county farm for a very trivial offense, or an executive pardon. It is charged that in some instances there are great abuses of the law in which large numbers of witnesses are summoned for no other purpose than to swell the bill of cost. It is certainly a great evil and I trust that you will be able to provide some remedy without impairing the efficiency of the court.

I have been requested to lay before you section 2061 with a view of having considered an amendment to authorize the board of supervisors, upon the petition of a majority of the electors or parties interested, to have fences on township and range lines built at the joint cost of the two sides of the line as in the case of fences on county lines. I submit the matter without recommendation.

Section 2178, in relation to the cession of jurisdiction to the United States, should be so amended as to include all lands acquired by the United States for the purpose of making canals, levees or any other works in connection with the improvement of rivers and harbors. This amendment is necessary in case the United States, in the improvement of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in this state, shall acquire lands for that purpose.

Chapter 65, of the Code, on the subject of insurance, needs some amendment. In 1890 the deposit feature of the insurance law was repealed, but provision was made that no company against which a judgment was rendered should continue business unless the judgment be satisfied or appealed from within thirty days. This provision was, in some way, omitted from the Code of 1892, and as the law now stands there is no means whatever for the enforcement of the judgment. I recommend that the law of 1890 on this subject be re-enacted. Section 2330 is, I think, unjust and hurtful to the insured in case of partial loss in providing that the measure of damages shall be an amount equal to the damage to the property, prorated as the amount of the whole insurance is to the value of the whole property.

Section 2391 is held to be unconstitutional as to criminal trials, and should be modified so as to meet this objection.

Section 2987 and 2988, prescribing qualification of mayor and aldermen, are in conflict with section 250 of the constitution and should be repealed.

The treasurer of municipalities is omitted from among the elective officers provided for in section 2978 as printed in the Annotated Code, while the certified copy on file in the office of the Secretary of State provides that the treasurer shall be elected by the people. This omission ought to be supplied.

Section 3184 is held by the Judges of the Supreme Court to be unconstitutional, and should be repealed.

Section 3342, is so construed that little or no revenue arises therefrom. It will be well either to repeal the section, or to require all dealers in cotton seed to pay the tax.

I recommend that section 3345 be amended so as to authorize wholesale druggists, doing business within the state, to sell alcohol in quantities not less than one gallon to licensed pharmacists and physicians, upon the payment of a reasonable privilege tax.

Section 3428 is a prolific source of trouble and reversals of judgments. The simpler form of return of service of process prescribed by section 1528, of the code of 1880, is much to be preferred. Under it no possible harm could be done the citizen, who was allowed to controvert the truth of the return after judgment on it, by motion at any time, and vacate it, if it was untrue.

Sections 3468 and 3469 introduce a harsh, unjust and oppressive rule, by which the partner or co-owner who is not a party to the judgment, has his interest subordinated to that of the creditor of another. There is absolutely no justification for such an invasion of his rights. There seems to have been no necessity for any such legislation, and it was probably passed without proper consideration.

Section 3510, in the matter of protests, very unnecessarily requires the officer protesting to deliver to the holder of the instrument protested, a copy of the protest duly signed and verified by oath. This adds fifty cents to the cost of protest in each case without any necessity or reason for it, and for this reason I recommend its repeal.

Section 3612 is in conflict with section 242, of the constitution, in that it makes the payment of taxes a prerequisite to registration, while the constitution declares who shall be entitled to register, and that the payment of taxes shall be a prerequisite to voting.

Section 3615 was framed under a misconception of the constitution and unduly abridges the privilege of registration, which may well be allowed at any time, while four months must elapse between registering and voting.

There is no provision in the Annotated Code for filling vacancies in State offices, and section 3698 fails to provide for filling vacancies in county district offices.

Section 3905 is respectfully submitted with the view of having you consider an amendment exempting section hands on railroads from working on public roads, without recommendation.

Section 3910 exempts two horses or mules and implements from service on public roads, which, outside of the delta, imposes hardships on those not exempt, and interferes seriously with the working of roads. It is also alleged that the time specified for working roads is most inconvenient to farmers, being at their busiest season, and that their interest demands a change of the time for such work. I submit the matter for such action as you may think proper.

As shown by a recent decision of the supreme court in the case of Wilson vs. Jennings, section 4228 was manifestly a mistake, and should be modified or repealed.

Section 4900 is hurtful to all commercial interests, and I earnestly recommend its repeal. A great deal of the business of the country is transacted through the banks and express companies upon drafts with bill of lading attached, the draft due and payable on the arrival of the bill of lading, while several days may elapse before the goods arrive. The adoption of this section must have been under a misconception that the draft was not due until the goods were delivered. Were this provision continued and enforced, many of the leading wholesale merchants of the country, who have followed this method of busin ss for years, would withdraw their trade from the state, much to the injury of its commerce.

FINANCIAL.

The able and comprehensive reports of the Auditor of Public Accounts and State Treasurer will acquaint you with the financial condition of the State at this time and will serve as a guide to your action in providing the necessary revenue for the ensuing biennial term.

The reports show that for the fiscal year 1892 the disbursements from the treasury exceeded the receipts by $179,955.10, and for the year 1893, the excess of disbursements over receipts was $248,545.92, making an excess of disbursements over receipts for the two years of $428,501.02. The deficit, however, is not so great for the year 1893 as the figures indicate, as the appropriations for the support of the various institutions up to the 31st of December were drawn from the treasury of the State and charged to the treasurer of the institutions, as explained by the Auditor in his report. Of the disbursements for the year 1893 $674,195.82 were on account of the common schools, which sum added to the poll tax retained in the counties, amounting to $245,823.58, makes a total contribution for the support of common schools of $920,018.90. Heretofore liquor licenses were a prolific source of revenue to the common school fund, but year by year the amount from that source has been diminished, and the continued tendency towards prohibition warrants the conclusion that little can be expected hereafter from the sale of liquor licenses. In the year 1892 liquor was lawfully sold in thirty-one counties of the State; at this time there are only about ten counties in which liquor is sold under a license. The great falling off from this source, together with the disappointing results from the efforts of the State Revenue Agent, makes the fiscal question for the next two years a very serious one, and to it I invite your careful attention.

The total assessment of real and personal property for the year 1893 is about $160,000,000 and the assessment of railroad property valued at about $24,000,000 added to this makes an aggregate of about $184,000,000 of taxable property in the State.

I commend the whole subject to your thoughtful attention.

The State Treasurer has been faithful and attentive to all his duties. He has strictly complied with the laws, and with the requirement of the constitution to publish statements of the condition of the treasury, which statements were verified by the Governor; and I have, as often as required, at other times, gone to the treasury without notice to the treasurer, and verified the cash balance, and published the fact as required by section 187 of the constitution.

REVENUE AGENT.

The office of State Revenue Agent was created expressly for the purpose of securing to the proper treasuries such revenues as were due them and improperly withheld, and it was believed that a large amount would be collected from that source. But the repeated adverse decisions of the supreme court demonstrate the imperfections of the law, and while the Revenue Agent has been busy at work and has found large sums to be due and unpaid, the almost unbroken line of decisions of the supreme court against him has demonstrated the futility of his attempts, and discourages further effort without some change in the law.

The most serious defects in the law seem to be the absence of a right on the part of the Agent to maintain certain actions and to assess property which has entirely escaped assessment. A simple amendment to the law empowering the Revenue Agent to sue in all cases where the State, County, Municipality or Levee Board has the right to sue, and conferring upon him all the rights of action they possess, will probably remedy the first defect; the second is more serious and far-reaching in its results, but a provision requiring the Agent to report his discoveries of all property, real and personal, that has escaped taxation and remains unassessed, to the assessor, requiring him to assess and report the assessment to the proper authorities so as to give the party assessed an opportunity to be heard, will, I believe, meet the objection as to assessment. After assessment, if the tax is not paid to the tax collector, within a reasonable time, let the delinquent be reported to the Revenue Agent who should be required to institute suit as provided in the amendment first suggested. Without some such legislation as is here recommended the office of Revenue Agent may as well be abolished. I shall cheerfully co-operate with you in perfecting a system that will secure to the proper treasuries the revenues to which they are entitled, and compel each citizen to bear his legitimate share of the burdens of government.

The total amount collected by the Revenue Agent for the years of 1892 and 1893, is $11,537.26, every dollar of which was collected without litigation. The terms of the settlement with the Georgia Pacific Railroad Company are succinctly, but clearly given by the Attorney General in his report to your honorable body.

STATE LANDS.

Chapter 78 of the Annotated Code requires all lands owned by the State and by the school funds to be carried on the records of the Land Office, and such as are for sale to be sold at a price to be fixed by the Governor and Land Commissioner, and when the price has been so fixed it shall not be reduced within two years thereafter, nor sold at any other price, until changed in like manner; and the sale of Swamp and Overflowed lands was suspended for twelve months to enable the Land Commissioner to investigate the value thereof, with a view of fixing the price of that part of it of peculiar or special value. But there was no means provided whereby the Land Commissioner could ascertain the value of these lands, and the Governor and Commissioner were compelled to fix an arbitrary value upon them until your honorable body shall provide the means, by necessary appropriations, for ascertaining their true value. It is also made the duty of the Land Commissioner to protect the lands of the State from trespass, and he is authorized to institute suits for damages, and for the recovery of possession of any land adversely held, yet not a dollar was appropriated to meet the expense incurred in such litigation, or in his efforts to enforce the law for the protection of the State's property.

I recommend that sufficient appropriations be made for compensating a competent agent or agents, to be selected by the Land Commissioner with the approval of the Governor, or in such other manner as your wisdom may suggest, to go upon the lands, make careful inspection, and report in full to the Land Commissioner, that the Governor and Land Commissioner may fix the price as contemplated by sections 2574 and 2578 of the Code. I also recommend such appropriation as may be necessary to enable the Land Commissioner to perform the duties required of him by sections 2589 and 2590 of the Annotated Code.

In the matter of tax-lands instances of great hardship are sometimes presented. The land having passed from the hands of the owner by some mistake, or oversight, and by no intentional default, is held by the State and cannot be reconveyed except upon payment of the price fixed under the law. I recommend that, in such cases, the land be reconveyed upon such equitable terms as may be agreed upon by the owner and Land Commissioner, with the approval of the Attorney General and the Governor.

The transactions of this department have been meager, for two reasons. First, at the price fixed, only choice lands have been taken, as the most of it, and especially the poorer quality, is not worth the price; secondly, the stringency of the times would have prevented large and numerous investments at any price.

For further information as to the operations of the Land

Office, I respectfully refer you to the report of the Commissioner, which will be transmitted to you in due time.

EDUCATION.

The continued improvement in the public school system of the State, and the high rank our schools have attained, should be a matter of pride to all our people. There is, perhaps, no State in the Union that has made greater progress in matters of education during the last decade than Mississippi; and a great measure of the success in this department is due to the superior efficiency and untiring energy of the State Superintendent, whose whole time is laboriously devoted to his duties, and who is the most over-worked officer in the State. I recommend that he be authorized to employ a clerk at a reasonable salary, and that the necessary appropriation be made for that purpose. His biennial report will be laid before you in due time, and to it, in which all the necessary details are clearly given, I respectfully invite your attention.

In several parts of the State complaints are made that large numbers of children are denied the benefits of the schools by reason of the construction placed upon section 3995 of the Code by the State board of education, in which it is held that no special district can be created which will increase the number of districts above one-tenth the number of square miles in the county. It is claimed that a compliance with this section deprives many children of the benefits intended to be conferred by the law, and that it should be so amended as to permit the formation of special districts wherever the necessities of the surroundings demand it. I submit the matter to your judgment, and recommend such amendments to the law as will remedy the evil complained of, provided it can be done without detriment to the educational interests of the counties.

UNIVERSITY.

The report of the Board of Trustees of the University of Mississippi will shortly be transmitted to you, and I respectfully invite your attention to the recommendations contained therein and commend them to your careful and favorable consideration.

The University continues to maintain its high character as an institution of learning, and the faculty is not inferior to that of any similar institution in the South. The discipline and morals of the students are now such as to deserve the highest commendation. Chancellor Fulton has proven himself a most efficient administrative and executive officer, and his constant, intelligent and indefatigable efforts in behalf of the University, have been rewarded with a satisfactory measure of success. The wants and necessities of the institution are clearly set forth in the report, and I will cheerfully sanction all reasonable measures you may adopt for the improvement of the property, and for maintaining the high standard the University has attained.

The financial report required by section 4454, of the Annotated Code will be transmitted to your honorable body with the Biennial Report of the Board of Trustees.

AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL COLLEGE.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College is now complete in all its departments. For years it was a mechanical college only in name, but the organization of the Mechanic Arts department is now complete, and it is an Agricultural and Mechanical College in fact. The Experiment Station is a most important auxiliary, especially to the Agricultural department. There is no institution in the country that affords better facilities for a thorough and useful education, and for preparing young men for the successful prosecution of the various pursuits of life than the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The large experience of the president, General Stephen D. Lee, and his phenomenal success in the management of the College, give ample assurance of its future prosperity. The president is ably supported by a thoroughly accomplished, loyal and harmonious faculty, and the work in all the departments moves smoothly along without fault or friction.

The attendance for the session of 1892, was 310; for the session of 1893, 262, and for the present session, up to date, 230 students. The falling off in the attendance for the last and present sessions is undoubtedly attributable to the unprecedented financial stringency that has prevailed throughout the country. The attendance is not as large as it should be, when the superior advantages are considered, and besides these, a good education can be acquired here at less expense than at any other institution of the same grade in the United States.

The wants of the college are definitely presented by the President in his report to the board of trustees. The appropriations asked for to supply the deficiency in the teaching force, for the purchase of supplies and implements for the several departments and for repairing the buildings are essential to the best interests of the institution, and necessary for the preservation of the State's property from decay. The board of trustees unites with the president in these recommendations, and they are emphasized by the committee appointed under the law to appraise the college property, in its report to your Honorable body, which report will accompany that of the board of trustees. These recommendations are worthy of your thoughtful attention, and I stand ready to co-operate with you in all necessary appropriations for the purposes mentioned.

INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE AND COLLEGE.

It is with feelings of extreme pride and gratification that I again commend to your fostering care and tender consideration this excellent institution for the education of the girls of Mississippi. Of all our State educational institutions there is none that brings to us so rich a harvest of real blessings as the Industrial Institute and College. The State is receiving a magnificent return for its investment, in the educational and industrial training of so many of our young women, and money appropriated by the State to this institution will always bring a good return.

The faculty is all that can be desired. The members are able, and energetic, thoroughly competent in the work of their respective departments, and are happy in a determined, united and harmonious effort to accomplish the greatest possible results for the general advancement of the college. The President measures fully up to the requirements of the delicate and responsible position he occupies, and the future prosperity and ultimate greatness of this institution is abundantly guaranteed unless some opposing obstacle shall intervene to stay its march of progress. I recommend that adequate appropriations be made to meet its increasing necessities.

The attendance at this time is not so large as at previous sessions, but the falling off is attributed mainly to the same cause that has operated against all our colleges for the last two years, to-wit: financial stringency.

The report of the President to the board of trustees explains concisely, but in full detail, the work of each and every department of the college, and presents through the board, its necessities for your consideration. I trust that your honorable body may be impressed with the importance of the recommendations made by the president and board of trustees, and provide liberally for this institution, which should be the pride of every Mississippian who is loyal to the interests of her fair daughters.

Your attention is especially invited to the report of Miss Minnie F. Black, Mistress of Music, to the president, in regard to her department. There can be no doubt of the superior advantages accruing to young women who are so fortunate as to acquire a good musical education. Their services are always in demand at a higher rate of compensation than those of any industrial art taught in the college, and a young woman depending upon her own efforts cannot be better provided for than with a good education in this important and useful art. I commend the recommendations of Miss Black to your favorable attention.

ALCORN A. & M. COLLEGE.

Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College has not been free from friction and disturbing elements for the last two years. During that time, and perhaps from an earlier date, a part of the teaching force, three in number, have openly resisted the authority of the president of the college and the faculty, in which they seem to have been sustained by the executive committee of the board of trustees, and of late, by a majority of the board itself, the controversy finally culminating in June, 1893, in the non-election of the President, J. H. Burrus, and all the members of the faculty who sympathize with him, six or seven in number. One of the recalcitrant teachers was re-elected, and the other two would have been but for my earnest protest against it. The difficulty was apparently attributable more to conflicting interests of some of the trustees than to any want of faithful and efficient conduct of the college by the president and the majority of the faculty who supported him. J. H. Burrus, who had presided over the institution since 1882, was displaced, I think without cause, and I fear to the detriment of the college. Prof. W. H. Reynolds, a colored teacher of Vicksburg, of good educational acquirements, and of excellent reputation, was elected to the Presidency, and he reports the school in a flourishing condition.

For the first time, I met with the board of trustees at the regular June meeting, and again in August, and was informed that it was the first visit the college had ever received from the Governor of the State. I was most favorably impressed with the location for such an institution, except for its inaccessibility, which involves the outlay of considerable time and means to reach it, and the buildings, in the main, are in good repair. My observations there have more thoroughly convinced me that the interests of no state educational institution should be controlled by a local board of trustees.

Your attention is respectfully directed to the report of the trustees and President of the college, which show the expenditures of the money entrusted to them, as well as the wants of the institution, and I recommend the necessary appropriation for its support. I further recommend that a joint committee be appointed by the two houses of the legislature to visit the college and to make full report in relation thereto.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Up to this date I have had no report from the State Normal School at Holly Springs, but learn from a reliable source that it is in a prosperous condition. Rev. E. D. Miller, under serious disadvantages, arising from the want of the necessary funds for its proper maintenance, has conducted this school with a degree of success that is remarkable. The report of the board of trustees will be forthcoming in due time, and I commend it to your careful attention. This school is under the supervision of a conservative and most efficient board of trustees, and nothing will be asked that is not imperatively demanded by the necessities of the institution. I recommend such appropriation as may be shown by the trustees to be necessary for the support of the school, economically administered.

TOUGALOO UNIVERSITY.

While the State is now prohibited from contributing from the public treasury to the support of Tougaloo University, the management has requested recognition and encouragement by the appointment and continuation of a board of visitors, and the request has been cheerfully complied with. I regard this as one of the best conducted schools in the state, and as such it gives me pleasure to mention it here with my warmest commendation.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The management of the several benevolent institutions of the state during the past two years has, I think, been wise, economical and efficient. Their condition, as to the care and treatment of the inmates, as well as to their financial affairs, will appear in the reports of the boards of trustees, to which your attention is respectfully invited.

LUNATIC ASYLUM.

The general condition of this institution is excellent. The number of patients remaining in the Asylum at the end of the fiscal year was 632, males 290 and females 342. Of these there were 154 white males and 196 white females; 186 colored males and 146 colored females.

The commission to which was entrusted the reconstruction of the burnt building performed its duties faithfully and with a degree of economy gratifying, if not surprising to itself. Many improvements were made in the structure, adding greatly to the convenience of some of its apartments, and to the comfort of the whole building. Finding that portion of the building not consumed by the fire greatly in need of repairs, some of it in an apparently unsafe condition, and the whole almost unfit for occupancy, the commission used most of the unexpended balance of the appropriation in those much needed repairs, and the whole structure is in better condition now than ever before. It will be seen from the report of the commission and the board of trustees that, notwithstanding the extensive repairs not contemplated in the appropriation, out of the amount set apart for repairing, rebuilding and re-furnishing, eleven thousand six hundred and sixty-five dollars and fifty-two cents remained unexpended and were covered back into the treasury.

In providing for the support of the State Lunatic Asylum for the next biennial period a very considerable increase in the population may be confidently anticipated, and I recommend that the maximum of the appropriation be sufficient to meet any demand that may arise from such increase, restricted by a similar provision to that in the act of 1892 making the appropriation for the support of this institution. The danger arising from lighting the state institutions with kerosene lamps has been so frequently called to the attention of the legislature that I forbear saying more on that subject than to invite your attention to the recommendation of the board of trustees.

It gives me pleasure to testify to the faithful, energetic and successful efforts of the board of trustees and the building commission to perform all the duties assigned them, respectively, and to the intelligent and efficient discharge of all their duties by Dr. Mitchell, the Medical Superintendent, his assistants and the subordinate officers and employees of the institution.

EAST MISSISSIPPI INSANE ASYLUM.

The report of the Board of Trustees and Medical Superintendent of the East Mississippi Insane Asylum will give you full and complete information regarding this institution in all its departments and details. Dr. J. M. Buchanan has proved himself to be the right man in the right place, and continues to grow in popular favor, as well as in the esteem and confidence of all who are interested in the well being of the Asylum. His administration has been able, economical and successful, and from no quarter has any complaint been heard. The trustees have been faithful and efficient in administering the affairs of the Asylum, and its present condition cannot but commend the institution and the work of the board of trustees to your hearty approval.

For the number of patients, movement of the inmates, lights and water supply, I refer you to the report of the board of trustees and Superintendent, and recommend the necessary appropriations to meet all the demands of the institution.

INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND.

The Institute for the Blind has been conducted successfully from every point of view during the last two years. The superintendent has been faithful in his attention to its interests, and has managed its affairs, under the supervision of the board of trustees, with a degree of success which must commend the management to your cordial approval. For the last two years, in consequence of complaints made of the treatment of some of the pupils, I have given the Institute for the Blind more than ordinary attention, and after the strictest inquiry and most careful investigation I have failed to find, at any time, any physical evidence of neglect or wrong-doing on the part of any officer or employe of this institution. I have always found them attentive to their duties, which they have performed cheerfully, intelligently and to the entire satisfaction of the board of trustees. The pupils seem to advance rapidly in their studies, both literary and industrial, and their devotion to the officers and teachers of the school is an unmistakable testimony of the kind and tender care with which these unfortunate wards of the State are treated.

The report of the board of trustees, together with the recommendations of the superintendent, will acquaint you with the details of its operations, and with the wants and necessities of the institution. I commend them to your careful attention, and recommend the necessary appropriations for such improvements and repairs as are indispensable for the preservation of the property, and for the efficient conduct of the school.

I feel that I should make a special appeal in behalf of the department of music. The pianos have been in use for years and the constant and long continued use has worn them out until they are entirely unfit for service. These poor blind children are deprived of the beauties of nature by which we are charmed, and their greatest pleasure is in the melody that music affords. Let us contribute to their happiness in any way we can, and I do not know how we can better do so than by providing them with good musical instruments. I recommend a special appropriation for the purchase of two good pianos.

I invite your special attention to the appendix to the report of the Board of Trustees, which will, in the minds of all fair minded people, put forever at rest the unwarranted charges paraded through the press against the management of this institution.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

The institute for the Deaf and Dumb continues to improve in its methods of imparting knowledge to the silent seekers within its walls, and each succeeding session adds new laurels to the patient and efficient teachers who are devoting their lives to this important work.

The zeal, fidelity and unfaltering devotion to duty which have characterized the course of the Superintendent, Mr. J. R. Dobyns, since his connection with the institution, have marked the conduct of this excellent officer during the biennial term just closed.

There are present at school at this time eighty pupils, with a few others yet to arrive, about as large a number as at any previous time since the establishment of the institution.

In addition to the appropriations for support the items of repairs and transportation must not be overlooked, and the suggestion of the trustees in relation to the salary of the foreman of the printing department is worthy of your favorable action. I also commend the suggestion of the superintendent and board of trustees that provision be made for sending a few of the worthiest graduates to the National Deaf Mute College at Washington.

The recommendation of the Superintendent and board in regard to the purchase of appliances for protection against fire, and for dispensing with the use of coal oil, for light, is of the utmost importance; and while the danger to life from fire may be greater here than at the other State institutions, it is sufficiently so, too, at the Asylums for the insane, the Institution for the Blind and the State educational institutions to warrant your Honorable Body in providing for the more modern improved and safer method of lighting such institutions.

In closing my remarks in reference to the State's Charitable Institutions I earnestly recommend that the law requiring the payment of board at the asylums and board and tuition at the Institutes for the Blind, and Deaf and Dumb, by citizens of the state, be repealed. It is rarely the case that a collection can be made, and the law is practically a dead letter on the statute books. Let us make these institutions free to all citizens of the State who may be so unfortunate as to need their benefits.

HOSPITALS.

The hospitals at Vicksburg and Natchez are charities which are indispensable, and they merit a liberal support at your hands. The noble work of these hospitals extends, more or less, to all parts of the State, and the successful and economical management during the last two years reflects great credit upon the Boards of Trustees and the officers in charge. From the biennial reports of the boards of trustees you will be able to understand, in detail, the operations and necessities of these institutions, and trusting that you will make the necessary appropriations for their support, I earnestly commend them to your favor.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

It will devolve upon you to make the necessary appropriation to enable the State Board of Health to carry out the provisions of the law in relation to Health and Quarantine, and I have been requested by members of the State Medical Association to submit for your consideration, chapter 60 of the annotated code, for such amendments as your wisdom may suggest. I also recommend that section 3254. of the code be so amended as to permit physicians residing without the state to practice medicine within the state when called in consultation by licensed physicians residing within the state, without being required to obtain a license therefor.

PENITENTIARY.

The State Penitentiary has been successfully managed during the last biennial term, and the officers and employes have been faithful and efficient in the discharge of their respective duties. The few accidents and casualties that have occurred were unlooked-for from any reasonable point of view, and could not possibly have been prevented with the means at hand under our present system of conducting the prison.

On the 23rd of December, 1893, there were, in the penitentiary and in the hands of lessees, 791 prisoners; 100 white and 691 colored. This is an increase of 238 since the 3rd of December, 1891. There were received during the year 1892, 266, and during the year 1893, to the 23rd of December, 401 convicts. There were, from December 3rd, 1891, to the 23rd of December, 1893, 72 deaths among the prisoners, and for the same time there were 72 escapes, a large percentage of whom have been re-captured. The amount of net cash paid into the treasury by the board of control for the year 1892 was $24,010.50, and for the year 1893, to the 23rd of December, $26,225 99, with a considerable amount in the hands of the warden on that date not paid into the treasury; and still further sums due and uncollected which have doubtless since been paid in.

For further particulars pertaining to the interests and operations of the penitentiary I refer you to the biennial report of the Board of Control, which will be found to be complete in all its details and replete with valuable suggestions and recommendations.

I need not again remind your honorable body that after the 31st of December, 1894, no penitentiary convict can ever be leased to any person or persons, or corporation, private or public. In presenting this subject for your consideration at your regular session of 1892, I was so thoroughly impressed with the conviction that the duty of providing new methods for the conduct of the state prison was devolved upon you at that session, that I did not deem it necessary to emphasize the recommendations I then made on that subject. Renewing those recommendations, I respectfully submit the whole subject to your consideration and will co-operate with you in such proper legislation as will dispose of this important question.

MILITARY.

Section 221 of the constitution reads as follows: "The legislature is hereby required to make an annual appropriation for the efficient support and maintenance of the Mississippi National Guard," yet at your regular session of 1892, not a dollar was appropriated. On more than one occasion during the last two years the need of such an appropriation as the constitution requires was severely felt. For the preservation of the peace and the enforcement of the law it became necessary to use the military, but the executive found himself without a dollar at his command for that purpose. It was an emergency that had to be met, and I paid the railroad fare of two companies of the National Guard out of the executive contingent fund, but the Illinois Central Railroad Company generously and voluntarily refunded the money. The different commands of the National Guard have promptly responded to every call, and on the occasion referred to the companies from Crystal Springs and Hazlehurst, with the citizens of Brookhaven, bore themselves as trained soldiers, and rendered further disturbance at that time altogether improbable.

I recommend such appropriation as in your judgment may be necessary for the efficient support of the National Guard, in accordance with the mandate of the section of the constitution referred to.

The Adjutant General has performed his duties faithfully and intelligently, having accompanied me on several occasions when the peace of the community was threatened, and has always responded with alacrity when called upon for such service. By section 3952 of the code the salary of the Adjutant General is fixed at two hundred at fifty dollars, but as the legislature failed to make an appropriation for this purpose he has not been able to collect any compensation for his services for the last two years. I recommend that the appropriation be now made to cover past services as well as for the future. There is much work for the Adjutant General to do, and the salary is not commensurate with the services.

For further details in this department you are referred to the report of the Adjutant General.

PENSIONS.

Under the provision of section 272 of the constitution the legislature passed an act authorizing the sum of fifty dollars to be paid annually out the State Treasury to all persons entitled to receive pensions under the laws of this state, but it was further provided that not more than $64,200 per annum should be expended for that purpose. This amount was set apart upon the hypothesis that it would afford fifty dollars to every person entitled to a pension under the law, but in consequence of a very large increase in the number, only $32.25 were paid to each pensioner for the year 1892, and for the same reason the amount for the year 1893 will be considerable less. I am thoroughly convinced that there are many persons receiving pensions who, under a proper administration of the law, would not be entitled to them, and on the other hand I know there are some, and there may be many, legally and justly entitled to the pension who do not receive it. I recommend such amendment of the law as will guard against this evil, and ensure the payment of this little pension to those contemplated by the constitution, and none others. There is in many counties of the state a camp of Confederate veterans who could very properly be authorized to pass upon all applications for pensions, and in counties where there are no such camps a committee of Confederate veterans might be organized for that purpose. Then let the money be apportioned to each county in proportion to the number of ex-Confederate soldiers, sailors, widows, etc., or in proportion to the number of soldiers enlisted from the county, or upon such other basis as may be equitable and just to all concerned. I submit the matter to your thoughtful attention, trusting that your wisdom may suggest a remedy for the evil complained of.

SOLDIER'S HOME.

The Mississippi Division of United Confederate Veterans will ask for legislation looking to the establishment of a home for the disabled and infirm ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors of Mississippi, and I doubt not that more substantial relief can be assured to the worthy and needy soldier in this way than in the distribution of pensions as it is now done. There is a proposition to have the state set apart a portion of the land donated by the city of Meridian for the location of the East Mississippi Insane Asylum, for a Soldier's Home. There may be doubt whether, under the grant, this can be done. I shall cheerfully sanction any proper legislation for the benefit of the Confederate soldiers and sailors, and their widows, and trust that your wisdom may suggest a means of providing for them as they should be.

DIRECT TAX.

As authorized by a Joint Resolution of your honorable body approved February 23rd, 1892, I received from the Treasury of the United States $69 584.55, amount of the Direct Tax paid by the citizens of Mississippi, which I paid into the State Treasury in trust for, and to be refunded to them in the manner prescribed by chapter 44 of the acts of 1892. Of the above amount $48,186 58 have been paid out, and there is still remaining in the treasury to the credit of the Direct Tax fund, $21,397.97.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

On the 23rd of November, 1892, the able and accomplished Attorney General, Honorable T. M. Miller, who had so faithfully and efficiently discharged the duties of the office for seven years, tendered his resignation to take effect on the 21st of January, 1893, and on the same date Honorable Frank Johnston was appointed to fill the vacancy, since which time he has performed the duties of the office with great satisfaction to all concerned. Section 187 of the Annotated Code requires the Attorney General to make a report to every session of the legislature of the condition of the public service, and to make such recommendations as he may deem proper for the improvement of the service under his supervision. His report will be forthcoming in due time and will command your attentive consideration.

STATE LIBRARY.

The library is in its usual good condition, and continues to grow in importance and value as each year adds to its vast collection of excellent books. The polite and attentive librarian, Miss Rosa Lee Tucker, adds much to its attractions and performs her duties well. In making the appropriation for the library I recommend that it be sufficient to enable the trustees to have an inventory taken and a new catalogue of its contents made.

CAPITOL BUILDING.

The capitol building is sadly in need of repairs, but with the small amount heretofore appropriated no general improvements could be undertaken, and nothing has been done but to preserve, as far as practicable, the building from further damage and decay. I submit the matter to your judgment, again calling your attention to the vast accumulation of worthless printed matter in some of the upper rooms, which, from its great weight, renders them unsafe and dangerous.

LEVEES.

The successful resistance, by the levees, of the immense floods that have threatened the devastation and ruin of the great Yazoo-Mississippi delta for several years past has demonstrated the possibility of security from overflow, and to that end certain legislation is needed at this special session. The protection of this great valley is a matter that cannot be postponed. I therefore lay before you the whole subject of levees and ask that you give due consideration to any amendments to the laws relating to levees and any new legislation that may be proposed in behalf of either of the boards of Levee Commissioners.

The board of Levee Commissioners of the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta desires authority to appropriate money for certain purposes essential to the public interest for which they find no warrant in the law, and other legislation is needed which will be proposed in due time.

The Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners will ask for the passage of a bill to authorize the issuance of two hundred thousand dollars of bonds, and for other important legislation necessary to the well being of the district.

It is in contemplation to ask for the organization of another levee district along the Mississippi river below the districts above mentioned, and if such legislation is proposed I trust that you will give it due consideration. It will give me pleasure to co-operate with you in the enactment of such laws as will provide for the preservation and improvement of the levees already erected, and for the building of others if practicable and expedient.

RAILROADS.

Section 3546 of the Annotated Code provides that no locomotive or car passing through a city, town or village, shall run at a greater rate of speed than six miles an hour, and imposes a fine of one hundred dollars for each violation. A compliance with this law imposes great burdens on railroad companies in the loss of time passing through town and villages without a plausible reason for it. I recommend that the law be so amended as to apply to cities and towns only, and that in towns the prohibition be limited to one-half mile, or less, from the company's depot.

It is alleged that there is no statutory provision for legal service on the agent of a railroad company whose property is in the hands of a receiver. I recommend such legislation as will remedy this evil, if it exists.

COTTON STATISTICS.

Complaint has reached me from the Department of Agriculture at Washington that no reliable information can be obtained by the Department from several of the cotton growing states, especially Mississippi, as to the acreage in cotton; information, it is claimed, which is valuable and most desirable. I recommend that the Tax Assessor be required to report the number of acres in cotton each year, and that the Auditor of Public Accounts be required to include the same in his biennial report.

FAIR GROUNDS.

Section 7, of An Act to Incorporate the Mississippi State Fair Association, approved March 1st, 1884, provides that said

Company shall be allowed to occupy any lands belonging to the State, known as the Fair Grounds," east of the capitol and west of Pearl river, for holding fairs and other proper uses; and erect thereon any such buildings, fences and other structures as they may think necessary for carrying on the objects of said association according to the provisions of this act." And section 9 provides "That the privilege hereby conferred on this corporation of occupying the lands of said State, and the basis of taxation of said company as fixed by this act, shall be revocable at the will of the legislature."

For years no fair has been held by the association, or pretended or attempted to be held, but the lands have been leased from year to year to individuals who have used them, and sub-leased them for various purposes not contemplated by the act.

I respectfully recommend that the sections referred to be repealed, and that the Board of Control be authorized to take charge of the lands for the use and benefit of the State, and that the Mississippi State Fair Association be permitted to dispose of, or remove therefrom, the buildings erected thereon.

CONCLUSION.

In presenting this somewhat extended review of the affairs of the State I have endeavored to confine myself to matters that seemed to demand attention; and craving your indulgence for any shortcomings that may appear, I now invoke upon your deliberations the blessings of Almighty God, whose never-failing wisdom should be our constant guide.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

MR. SPEAKER—I am directed to inform the House that the Senate has passed the following entitled bills, viz :

S. B. No. 16, An act to amend Section 844 of the Annotated Code of Mississippi in reference to the rights of creditors as to transferred stock.

WILLIAM HENRY, Secretary.

Hon. C. B. Mitchell, member elect from Pontotoc county, appeared and was sworn in as a member by the Speaker.

Mr. Dinsmore, for the Special Committee on Memorial services in honor of the late J. S. MADISON and L. S. TERRY, submitted the following :

L. S. TERRY.

Your Committee are under the mournful necessity of reporting that death has not been content with one victim from our ranks.

Another generous associate, whose genial smile and cordial hand-shake we all so well remember, has, since our last session, passed to the land of shadows.

The Hon. L. S. TERRY, of Attala, a Mississippian, and without fear or reproach, a brave soldier in the war with Mexico, a faithful adherent of the "Lost Cause," and an officer in the Confederate army, a member of the Legislature of 1890 and 1892, a faithful Representative of the people, a kind husband, an indulgent father, an obliging neighbor, a true type of God's noblest work—an honest man—has also been gathered to his fathers.

Sadly and sorrowfully invoking "peace to his honored ashes," your Committee present for your consideration the following resolutions and recommend their adoption :

Resolved, 1, That in the death of Maj. TERRY, Attala county has lost a faithful Representative, the Mississippi Legislature a true and tried member, and every Mississippian a devoted friend.

2d. That as a soldier, both in the Mexican and Confederate wars, none was more faithful to his country, nor gallant in its service. In peace he was patriotic and truly devoted to the best interests of the people.

8d. As a citizen and neighbor, his kindness and hospitality were unbounded.

4th. As a Mason he always went the length of his cable-tow to relieve the distresses of a worthy brother, his widow or his orphan.

5th. He was a Christian, patriot and soldier, whose example is worthy of imitation.

6th. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House, and a copy be sent to his widow.

J. R. DINSMORE,
W. P. RATLIFF,
W. A. HENRY,
A. B. GUYNES,
FRANK BURKITT,
Committee.

The resolutions having been read, earnest and eloquent tributes were offered by Mr. Binford, of Montgomery and Grenada, Mr. Jackson, of Attala, Mr. McGuire, of Yazoo, and Mr. Ratliff, of Attala.

MR. BINFORD said:

Mr. Speaker: There comes a time in the life of almost every man when he is called upon to perform a sad duty, and yet there are some things connected with that duty which, to some extent, extracts the sting of sorrow that would otherwise be there. This, Mr. Speaker, is my condition to-day. I feel, sir, I would be recreant to a sad and yet a sacred duty did I fail to offer a tribute to the memory of one of the State's truest sons, and one of my most cherished friends—Major L. S. Terry. Whilst the thought of his death is a sad one and brings sorrow to my heart, yet, sir, the thought of his many noble traits of character and the knowledge that he did not live in vain, mingles that sorrow with feelings of joy.

Mr. Speaker, Major Terry was reared in the days when school facilities were poor, and when our State did not afford so many opportunities for her sons to obtain an education as now, hence his education might be said to be limited; and yet, sir, nature had endowed him with a strong native intellect, and this he ever endeavored to utilize for the glory of God, for the good of his country and the welfare of his fellow-man. How well he succeeded let the record of his life tell. I will not speak of him as a perfect man, for, sir, the great Book of all Books informs us that "There are none perfect; no, not one;" and our experience and observation confirms this statement; but I will say this, that I have known Major Terry in the various walks of life; I have been with him in camp around the social camp fire; I have been with him upon the blood-stained field of battle, amid the booming and bursting of the hurtling shell and the hissing of the deadly minnie ball; I have been associated with him in "the weak, piping times of peace, when grim-visaged war had smoothed his wrinkled front;" I have sat with him in the legislative halls of our State, and in all places and at all times he was ever ready to do his duty as he saw or believed that duty to be. And while I said he was not a perfect man, yet, sir, his virtues shone forth with such refulgent splendor that his faults (I will not say vices, for he had none) were almost totally obscured—at least from his friends.

Mr. Speaker, Major Terry was a true patriot, and as such loved his country. In proof of this I point to him when a lad in his teens and when our country called for volunteers to go to Mexico young Terry was among the first to offer his services, which were accepted, and on account of gallant conduct was made a sergeant in his company; and again, sir, when the dark, threatening clouds of war hovered over our sunny land and when our own loved State believed her rights and her honor were threatened and called upon her sons to rally to her defense, then it was that Major Terry, a middle-aged man, with that love for his State which ever characterized him, came to her defense and organized that gallant band of soldiers known as the Long Creek Rifles, afterwards Company A, Fifteenth Mississippi Infantry. After three years of faithful service in that regiment, in the capacity of both company and field officer, he was called by Attala and Leake counties to serve them in the State Senate, which position, on account of age and ill health, he, by the advice, accepted and reluctantly resigned his position as Major of the regiment and at once entered upon civil duties. Since that time he has more than once been elected by his county to serve it in this House. How faithful was that service and with what zealous care he watched and worked for the best interests of his State, those of us who have sat in this hall with him can testify.

Mr. Speaker, Major Terry was not an eminent statesman in the common acceptation of that term, yet, sir, he was one of the noblest works of an all-wise Creator. He was an honest man; he was a good man, one whose breast was ever filled with the milk of human kindness. As an honest and faithful man, I admired him; as my devoted friend, I loved him. He was one of those friends that was so true, so faithful and so kind that I endeavored to "grapple him with hooks of steel." But, sir, my old friend has obeyed the command, "Dust thou art and to dust shall thou return." He has crossed the dark river and now "rests under the trees on the other shore." He is not dead, but sleepeth, and I doubt not is sleeping "that blessed sleep from which none ever wake to weep." Gentle, kind, loving and true, and a member of the Baptist Church. I trust and believe that an all-wise God has simply said, "Come up higher," and to-day his great soul is basking in the realms of eternal bliss, in that world prepared for the spirits of the pure in heart. Mr. Speaker, let us emulate his virtues and cover his faults with the broad mantle of charity. Peace, eternal peace, to his noble ashes.

MR. McGUIRE said :

Mr. Speaker: I wish, sir, to make a few remarks on the life and character of our deceased friend and late co-laborer in this body, Maj. L. S. Terry.

It was my good fortune and pleasure to be associated with him during the last session of this House, and then learned some of the characteristics that indelibly stamped themselves upon me. He was one of the few men who seemed perfectly clear of hypocrisy. His manner was that open, frank kind, that made him easy of approach; his high sense of honor forbade him doing aught that did not meet with his full and unequivocal endorsement, and what he believed to be right and for the best interests of his people, he persistently advocated.

In many respects Major Terry was a remarkable man, and possessed qualities that endeared him to those with whom he associated. In this instance, Mr. Speaker, I wish to refer to one incident in his life that developed most fully his charitable disposition. For many years he was a tiller of the soil. He was also a good judge of medicine and their uses. In his neighborhood, in Attala county, there were many people, both white and black, who were not able to pay for visits from regular physicians. These neighbors had confidence in Major Terry and never failed to ask his advice and take his prescriptions. After a hard day's work he would place his horse in his stable and walk from house to house to administer to the wants of his suffering neighbors. This he did without money and without price.

These little incidents, Mr. Speaker, but illustrate the beautiful traits of his character, and make his death one of universal sorrow to those who had known him so long and so well.

When the brave sons of Mississippi were summoned to bear arms in defense of their country against Mexico, there was none who responded more promptly or did more gallant service than he. Then in the prime of young manhood, he distinguished himself upon the fields of battle, and was among the last to return to his home, after peace had been declared and the victory won.

In 1860 and '61, when all the country was startled by the sounds of war, impending conflicts and invading enemies, Major Terry again answered the call of duty. Those who were with him during those four years of bloody, internecine war and strife know with what gallantry he defended the flag of his beloved Southland, and when her colors went down to rise no more, that none felt more keenly the remorse of defeat than himself. For his old comrades of those years, Major Terry had the greatest love, and for them no risk was too great or labor too hard. He delighted to dwell upon the camp fire scenes and relate the stories that made the Southern soldiers heroes of a lost but dearly loved cause.

Full of years and honors he has answered the last summons of the bugle call, and now rests from the labors of an honored and respected life. By his death the State, his county and country lose a true, a noble, a high-minded, pure, patriotic citizen and son, and this body one of its most useful and conscientious members.

Major Terry had lived his three-score and ten years, and has left behind a name worthy of emulation, and that is an honor to his State, his country and his people.

Sad, Mr. Speaker, as is the duty, yet, sir, I am glad that the opportunity was afforded me of thus publicly expressing my high appreciation of him and his services. In honoring his memory this body has honored itself, and we can say of him:

"A light gone out—a spark divine,
Whose gleam in life no more shall shine;
Now gone to sleep, life's journey o'er,
Now gone to rest for evermore."

MR. JACKSON said:

Mr. Speaker: As the immediate successor of the lamented MAJ. L. S. TERRY in these halls from the county of Attala, I beg, sir, to bow the knee of reverence and respect to his memory. I have, Mr. Speaker, known the honored deceased since my childhood, and can testify to the fact that his name, wherever known, was a synonym of all that is Christian, soldier and citizen. Sir, under the leadership and influences of that patriot, whose portrait adorns the Speaker's desk, (Hon. Jefferson Davis), on the plains of Mexico, Mr. Terry did his country yeoman service. And later, Mr. Speaker, with that brave and noble band, the 15th Mississippi regiment, led by the peerless and gallant Walthall, Maj. Terry shed his blood and bravely fought for his dear southland. I, Mr. Speaker, with his friends here say, peace to his ashes.

MR. RATLIFF said:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House: I feel that I would not be doing my duty were I to let this opportunity pass without saying a word in behalf of my departed colleague, MAJOR TERRY. I shall confine my remarks mainly to his home-life. I have been intimately acquainted with the deceased for a long time, having lived almost in his immediate community for twenty-five years, and have frequently been at his home. Major Terry was the father of a large and respected family, and, as a father and husband, none were more considerate or kind.

I wish to add my personal testimony to what Mr. McGuire says he has been told. I know of my own personal knowledge that, in his community, when his neighbors were sick, they sent for Major Terry, and without cost to anyone, he served both as physician and nurse, and in many instances would furnish the medicine. He was a most useful man and was loved and respected by all. For many years his neighbors put him as leader in the Sunday school work, either as superintendent, or teacher in the Bible class. He took great interest in the young people, and in him they felt they had a friend. He was an honored member of the Baptist Church, was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and was buried with Masonic honors, surrounded by hundreds of weeping relatives, friends and neighbors. The very large attendance at his burial gave unmistakable evidence of the high esteem in which they held him. Mr. Speaker, we do not claim that Major Terry was a perfect man. The very best have their faults. Let's cover his foibles with the broad mantle of charity, imitate his virtues, and, with his sorrowing family, join in the hope that by and by we shall meet him on the other shore, and trust that he has gone to that rest that remains to the people of God.

On motion, the resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

The committee then submitted resolutions in honor of Hon. James S. Madison, as follows :

JAMES S. MADISON.

Since the adjournment of this House, death has claimed one of its bravest and best members—HON. JAMES S. MADISON, of Noxubee. He was pursued by disease for months, and bore his afflictions with the fortitude characteristic of a courageous man. The prayers and devotion of a fond family and true friends, and the ministration of skilled physicians were unable to stay the hand of the fell destroyer. On the 25th day of December, 1892, in the meridian of useful manhood, he was “touched by the finger of God,” “crossed the river,” and “sleeps the sleep that knows no waking.”

He was born in Marengo county, Ala, on the 26th day of March, 1846. His parents moved to Noxubee county when he was a child, and there young Madison grew to man's estate, winning the esteem, the confidence and good will of his neighbors, which he maintained through life. His education was limited to the common schools. He was emphatically a self-made man.

He was married in 1876 to Miss Nettie Carpenter, of Noxubee county, and six children blessed their union, five of whom, with their mother, survive him. One of them, bright, manly and courteous, “a worthy son of a noble sire,” a page during the last session of this House, will be remembered with pleasure by its members.

Mr. Madison never followed any occupation save that of farming. His sound judgment, indomitable energy and fine business capacity enabled him to acquire considerable property. At the time of his demise he was one of the most extensive planters in his section.

Mr. Madison was elected to the Legislature of the State of Mississippi in 1885, and re-elected in 1888, 1889 and 1891. His splendid abilities were here conspicuous. He was one of the hardest working members that has occupied a seat in this hall. His capacity for labor was great, and in industry he was untiring. As a legislator he always held in view the good of the people, and voted on all questions as the dictates of an honest conscience demanded. He was the author of much valuable legislation, and has left his impress upon the statutes of the State. In January, 1890, he was chosen Speaker of the House of Representatives of this State by acclamation, a compliment never before paid. His administration of the office was fair and impartial, and won the commendation of all members. By his death this body has lost an able, a prudent, patient and safe legislator, and his county and State sadly mourn him.

His private life was exemplary. He was a citizen of high integrity and great usefulness; a friend, tried and unflinching; a husband, devoted and true; a father, kind and considerate.

He had the courage of his convictions. He was independent of thought and action. He possessed great will-power. He had in a high degree that essential to success in life—common sense. He was generous and just, unostentatious, frank, affable and sincere, a Christian gentleman, a consistent member of the Baptist church, and his soul now mingles with "the spirits of just men made perfect."

"His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And say to all the world, This is a man."

Standing, as it were, over the bier of our departed colleague, deploring the great loss to the State, but bowing submissively to Heaven's decree, your committee presents with this imperfect tribute to our departed friend, the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we have heard with profound regret of the death of HON. JAMES S. MADISON, for many years a faithful member of this House.

Resolved, That in his death this body has lost one of its most useful members; the State, a good citizen; his family a devoted husband and father.

Resolved, That a memorial page be set aside to his memory in the printed journals of the House; that these resolutions and this tribute be spread upon the journal, and a copy thereof be sent to his family

J. R. DINSMORE,
W. P. RATLIFF,
W. A. HENRY,
A. B. GUYNES,
FRANK BURKITT,
Committee.

Whereupon tributes of respect were offered by Mr. Ivy, of Clay, Mr. O'Neill, of Noxubee, Mr. Burkitt, of Chickasaw, Mr. Miller, of Copiah, Mr. Maybin, of Harrison, and Mr. Marshall, of Warren.

MR. IVY said:

Mr. Speaker: I would feel that I was derelict in my duty if I should fail to add my testimony to the many virtues of the late distinguished member from Noxubee, the Hon. JAMES S. MADISON, on this occasion. I knew him well. He was my friend, faithful and true, and I loved him with a love which leaves me no words to tell it; but with the indulgence of this House I will state a fact which probably the world does not know. It is needless for me to say that he was most highly esteemed by this House, in which he had served so long. I endorse every word of the memorial and resolutions submitted by the Committee; I heartily concur with the distinguished gentleman from Noxubee, Mr. Dinsmore, in all he said of Mr. Madison, when notifying this House of his sad death; as a father, a husband, a son, a citizen, a friend, a patriot, and a Christian gentleman. There was a time in the history of our country that tried men's souls. After the sun of our glorious Confederacy had gone down in eternal night, the victors seemed determined to punish our beloved South beyond endurance. A strange, unnatural crusade was opened upon her. Unlike the crusade of Peter the Hermit, it was by friend against friend, brother against brother, and Christian against Christian. It sundered the most sacred bonds that ever bound man to his fellow-man. It legalized every kind of warfare, tolerated every kind of insult and justified every kind of defamation. The leaders in it—a motly group of whites and blacks—used every measure lawful and unlawful, constitutional and unconstitutional, to force us to do what it was impossible for us to do, without spreading strife, misery and death all around us. The people of Mississippi determined to rescue her from the tyrant-hand of power. The good and the true, the pure and the brave gathered around the couch of our stricken mother, resolved to restore her once more to her former place and grandeur, the pride of her children and the admiration of her sister States. In the struggle for white supremacy Mr. Madison led to the rescue of his beloved State a nobler band than ever graced the army of the Cæsars. After the smoke of battle had cleared away, and victory perched upon our banner, unlike most of the gallant band engaged in that struggle, Mr. Madison did not escape unharmed, but was harrassed by long and vexatious lawsuits. On one occasion, after he had paid a heavy attorney's fee, I was sympathizing with him, when he said: "Do not trouble yourself about that; I am satisfied with the result; I would willingly give every cent I have in the world if necessary to see the people of Mississippi prosperous and happy." No matter what may have been his views on the questions of to-day, I know that every pulsation of his brave heart was for the welfare of Mississippi. Noble man! long may his memory live in the hearts of all Mississippians!

Mr. Speaker, the name of James S. Madison deserves to be recorded upon the noblest shrine in the temple of fame.

MR. O NEIL said:

Mr. Speaker: It has given me pleasure to listen to the many and just tributes paid the memory of my late colleague and friend by members of this House. When the grave has closed over those near and dear to us, those with whom we have been associated in the affairs of life, we often in the tenderness of heart engendered by the sense of loss we feel, not only forget the faults and foibles, but we magnify and exaggerate the virtues and amiable traits of character which the lost one may have possessed. In this instance, Mr. Speaker, I feel that I can justly say that the splendid and eloquent tributes to which I have listened are not exaggerated in any sense. My departed friend in his life work, and in those personal traits that were dominant in his character, had richly merited all that has been said in his praise.

He was not a scholarly man or a genius. He came up from the common walks of life, and was educated in the common schools. He made the most of his opportunities and studied to improve himself. He was industrious, earnest and successful. He was a prosperous farmer. He attended to his business and his farm paid him. He owned a beautiful prairie home in our county, and a large prairie farm; and he had around him the comforts and luxuries of life. He was charitable and sympathetic and full of public spirit. He was the only man I ever knew to seek the position of Road Overseer. This position, usually shunned by our best men, was sought by Mr. Madison. He annually, as required by law, made his report and asked to be reappointed. The best link of road in our county was under his control, and stands and will for years remain a monument to his energy, good judgment and public spirit. He impressed himself upon the legislation of our State and for the general good. Mr. Madison had been suffering for several months with some organic trouble, and reports as to his condition varied from time to time. In common with his many friends I felt a deep solicitude for him and urged him personally and by message through his son to go and put himself under the treatment of a specialist. I offered to accompany him personally to Chicago or St. Louis for that purpose. He did not, however, feel ready to take such a step. He wanted to put his business in shape and sturdily he pursued his work of preparation for the worst, and putting his business affairs in the best possible condition, until he had his crop gathered, settlements made with his hands and his obligations met, and he then said to his father that he would now go any where and submit to anything physicians might decide best.

He was ready to second any effort to prolong his life. He was also ready to die. In talking of his condition to his father I was told he calmly said, "I don't know that I should think it hard to have to die. I have lived forty-nine years, and have been blessed with much success and happiness, and have been honored by my fellow-men. I have had a fair share of life's blessings." He was carried to Mobile to be placed under an expert physician; but this move had been delayed too long. When taken from the train in Mobile his physical powers collapsed, and he was found to be beyond the power of medical skill, and in a few hours his spirit returned to the God who gave it.

When the sad message came to me, Mr. Speaker, I at once telegraphed our friend, Col. Street, the Speaker of this House, and received a message in reply that he would attend the funeral. I met the train carrying the body to Brooksville and accompanied Speaker Street. We went to the home Mr. Madison had built up, beautified and made happy in his lifetime, and found hundreds of his neighbors and friends there to pay a last tribute to the dead, and to mingle their grief with his heart-broken widow and children. His body was placed in the parlor of his home, and through the glass above his face and chest his friends looked for the last time upon his features. He was much changed in appearance; disease and suffering had emaciated his once burly frame, and the glow of health on his cheeks, so well remembered by this House, had given way to the pale shadow of death. The most pathetic scene, Mr. Speaker, that I have ever witnessed was in that hour, when the gray-haired father of Mr. Madison stood by the coffin, and with quivering frame and streaming eyes he spoke of his son as "my darling boy," praised him for his kindness and love, and bade him tenderly and affectionately good bye. It was a scene I had to turn away from. His life's work done, he has gone to his reward, leaving behind him many to mourn his loss and remember his genial nature, his kind heart and the example of his diligence in all his work, whether in his private affairs or public life.

MR. BURKITT said:

Mr. Speaker: It is said Hon. Jas. S. Madison is dead. We can scarcely realize the awful import of the words just uttered, yet they are true—too true.

Mr. Speaker:—The announcement of the death of one whom we had long and favorably known; one whose judgment we had respected; whose ability we had recognized; whose integrity we had acknowledged and whose companionship we had cherished, carries with it ever a train of sad reflections.

Although it is appointed to all men to die, and we know full well each of us must ere long tread the wine press alone, we often wonder why it is "the best are taken first."

We are not to question the purposes of a wise and beneficent Providence, but when an honest, intelligent, painstaking associate of long experience, is called to cross over the river, that he may rest in the cooling shades of the beautiful trees, or roam among the sweetly perfumed flowers of Elysian fields, leaving us to finish the work for which he was so eminently fitted, we are dazed by the unexpected visitation and our hearts are burdened with grief over the great loss we have sustained as individuals, as a legislative body and as a grand commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker—As we miss his pleasant greeting and genial association, we keenly feel the need of his intellectual labors to aid us, and we deplore the absence of his wise and conservative counsels to guide us in our deliberations, then it is, that we fain would recall him to life, that he might again be a solace to home and friends and longer uphold and maintain the interests of a people who confided in him, and to whom he was devoted. But we cannot. Nothing then is left to us, save to profit by his illustrious example, to commemorate his exalted virtues and to pay a deserving tribute to his honored memory. To this sacred duty, Mr. Speaker, your special committee has addressed itself. The report just read is the result of its labors, and now with hearts overflowing with sympathy for the bereaved ones around his family hearthstone, whom many of us know personally, we beg the privilege of pointing with mournful pride to the achievements, as citizen and legislator, of our departed friend, and gently laying an immortelle upon the new-made mound that covers his last remains.

Mr. Speaker—Amid the joyous festivities which marked the last anniversary of the coming of the World's Redeemer, the enfranchised spirit of James S. Madison passed from earth, and because of his consistent Christian life and deportment, a well-grounded hope is begotten, that guided by the Star of Bethlehem, his immortal soul has found its way to a brighter and a better land—a land governed by more perfect laws than are enacted here.

Mr. Speaker—It has been well said:

"His life was gentle and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And proclaim to all the world,
Jas. S. Madison was a man."

The prayers of an aged father ne'er make vocal the air that encircles the lowly bed of a more dutiful son. The grave of a kinder husband and father was ne'er bedewed by the tears of a disconsolate widow and orphans. No better neighbor ever responded to the requests, or administered to the wants of those around him. No resident of the good county from which he hailed performed more promptly any and all the responsibilities of patriotic citizenship. No eye more vigilant in watching the public interest e'er closed in eternal sleep. No hand, in recent years, has shaped more important legislation for Mississippi. No human heart e'er beat in tenderer compassion for the poor, the unfortunate and the oppressed. No lips e'er breathed more fervent invocations for the general prosperity of our beloved State, and the progress and advancement of our common country. Peace to his ashes! Reverence for his memory!

MR. MILLER said:

Mr. Speaker: I am deeply conscious of the fact that my feelings are in entire accord with the resolutions read. While it was my pleasure to know both of the distinguished gentlemen, who, alas, have gone to that bourne from whence no traveler returns, and to whose memories we this day pay a respectful, though sad, tribute; yet it was my fortune to know the Hon. JAMES S. MADISON more intimately than I knew Major TERRY.

It has been a long time, if ever before, since Mississippi was called upon to mourn the death of a more faithful and devoted legislator than was the Hon. Jame S. Madison. Always present at roll call and committee meetings, he, in this respect, as in many other things, set the members of this House an example by which they may well profit. Nor did he contribute his presence alone to the deliberations of this body, but he was an active and intelligent participant in every business matter of importance that came before it.

He was not a great man, if we are to understand by the word great what is generally meant when it is used in this connection, but if devotion to duty, a stainless life, and strong native ability, are to be considered as elements of greatness, Mr. Madison was a great man.

It was his kind heart and genial nature that made him at once the idol and solace of his home, and which endeared him to us.

He is no more, and as our thoughts turn to him on this occasion, a feeling of sadness comes on apace. With lingering fondness we recall his giant form, his ruddy face, and kindly disposition. We remember how strenuously he opposed any infraction of the rules of the House. I can almost see and hear him now, Mr. Speaker, as he rises in his place and calls, "Regular Order!" as some member attempts to get unanimous consent to introduce a resolution or kindred measure, out of its regular order. "Regular Order" was his watchword, and so often did he find occasion to use it that he was affectionately called by his fellow-members "Old Regular Order."

Yes, sir, from what I learn from those who knew him best as neighbor and companion, with him it was regular order in his home and private life. It was regular order in his Christian citizenship; and I know, and you know, Mr. Speaker, that it was regular order in his public career. And I doubt not, sir, that when the dread summons came for him to meet his God, it found him not unprepared. Though I ween that as the thoughts of his dear wife and devoted children rushed to his mind like a flood, in this awful hour, separated from them as he was, they seemed to entreat him to remain with them yet awhile longer; but knowing, and realizing as he did, that it was the regular order that man's existence should terminate, he hesitated not a moment, but fearlessly answered: "I am ready. It is but the regular order, the regular order!" Forty-nine years of age, as he was at the time of his death, "his way of life had not fallen into the sear and yellow leaf." The morning and noon of his life had passed, it is true, yet the shadows of evening had scarcely begun to stretch away toward the dawn when the eclipse came, and he went from our sight; but not, Mr. Speaker, as I fondly hope and believe, for all time; for there is something borne to me on the breath of every passing breeze, that is heard in the music of the countless spheres, and that is revealed to us in God's own word, which says there is a life beyond the grave.

In this life of sorrows and joys, joys and sorrows, chasing each other interminably,

"The many pass and fade, the one remains,
Heaven's light forever shines;
Life, like a dome of many-colored glass,
Stains the white radiance of eternity,
Until death comes and shatters it to fragments."

Yes, sir; I am glad to believe, yea, know, that for the truly good man—

"To die, is landing on some silent shore,
Where billows never break, nor tempests roar."

Hence, I say :

"Peace to the true man's ashes.
Weep only for those whose days
In old delusions have grown dim,
For such lives as his are triumphs,
And their close an immortality ;
Then, weep not for him."

MR. MAYBIN said :

Mr. Speaker: Philosophers throughout all the ages have attempted to accentuate in many ways their theories, and impress the human heart with their cold logic that death is not a pain, nothing but a transition from this earth of toil and privation and poverty and care, to that land of perfect peace beyond the stars, but those of us, who, through the long watches of the night, have waited for the imprint of Death's cold finger, that have listened for the rustle of his sable wing, that would throw its shadow across our hearts and homes, that have felt the pulse grow feebler and feebler still, until the great motive power of lingering life should cease forever, know that their theories are but empty sophistries.

The people of the section from whence I come, the border land of Mississippi, the land whose shores are washed by the Mexic sea, the land of the orange blossom, the land of perpetual summer, where every wind that blows and every wave that flows, bears upon its bosom a perfume caught from the heart of every flower that blooms ; the land where we are lulled to sweetest dreams by the soft, mysterious music of the Pascagoula, and awakened by the rhythmic song of tropic birds, mingled with the swelling cadences of sweeping waves, knew little personally of the distinguished gentleman—Hon. James S. Madison—whose memory we have met to reverence. But there has come to us upon the swift wings of well-earned fame and deserved reputation in all its fullness, the record of his unswerving devotion to public duty, knowing no tenets of self and bowing to no creed of favoritism, he served with a love that rivaled the world-famed idolatry of Eastern worship, the interest of his confiding people.

And I but express the wishes of my people when I say "peace to his ashes," and invoke, for the drooping hearts that dwell in his desolate home, that consolation which the world cannot give.

MR. MARSHALL said :

Mr. Speaker: As one who at times widely differed from him, yet always admired his purity of purpose and applauded the strenuous honesty of his endeavor, I desire to pay a tribute to the work and worth of the distinguished gentleman who, to-day, far from the fever and fret which we call life, slumbers with folded hands and still in the "windowless palace of peace."

The German poet, Heinrich Heine, as he lay dying, said: "When I am dead put not the laurel wreath on my tomb, for though I have loved poesy, it has been to me but a divine plaything. But put on my coffin a sword, for I have been a soldier in the army for the elevation of mankind."

These words might well have been uttered by the late Mr. Madison, for he spent the strength of his manhood and the best power of his intellect in the endeavor to elevate mankind and leave the world a place where happiness and justice might be more easily attained by the great majority.

This idea of realizing on earth a heaven where not a wanton woe shall pierce a human heart this idea of man's winning back the lost paradise which tradition once declares was his, is a strictly modern conception and is the master idea of the age.

In former centuries caste and class distinctions were so firmly fixed in the laws of society and the thoughts of men, that not even the veriest dreamer in boldest vision or most ecstatic prophecy, conceived of a time when all mankind might enter the promised land and all like brothers in whose veins flowed the one red blood of a common Father, enjoy alike the blessings which that Father's hand had prepared.

The serfs and the vassals, even the rich merchants and the skillful artisans of former ages, as they looked with frightened eyes on the donjon keep of their lords and masters or saw the haughty knights ride forth in crimson-splashed armor to enjoy the wild, sweet madness of battle, never dreamed that they, too, in the divine scheme of the universe, should have been the equals of the lord and noble, and in a rightly organized society would have climbed to the heights of those whom they deemed too far above them to even envy. But in the eighteenth century that divine dreamer, that prophet of the social evangel, that Messiah of politics, Jean Jacques Rousseau, by the splendid daring of his genius which despised all conventionality and pierced to the root of things, "the law within the law," discovered and proclaimed the radical falsity of the then accepted theory of society. The publication of his essay on the "Causes of Inequality Among Men," and of that book of books, the "Social Contract," marked a new era in the thought history of mankind. From that day to this the political and social history of the world has been the struggle to realize the master idea of Rousseau—the complete happiness in the present world of not a few favored individuals, but of all mankind. His methods have been proven defective, his logic has been shown to be no logic, but the inner idea is the dominant idea of the world to-day. This idea, kindling a new dawn of hope in the human breast became, and is the central idea of our own government and was epitomized in the ringing sentences of the Declaration of Independence, that document which we are told has "knighted all the sons of toil, opened all the paths of wealth and fame and put the star of hope above the cradle of the poor man's babe."

This idea, perhaps all unconsciously to himself, dominated the distinguished gentleman whose death to-day we mourn with bitter tears, and controlled his every act of life. Endowed with a genius for business which soon resulted in wealth and all the comforts which fall from its golden hands, and gifted with a heart and a fascinating personality which won him love and troops of friends, he would not yield him to their siren allurements and enjoy a life of selfish ease, but chose rather on the stormy and turbulent field of politics to do battle for his convictions and to fight like Heinrich Heine in the army for the elevation of mankind.

Reform movements found in him an advocate and a leader; and honesty in politics a champion and exemplar. In his political work he brought a painstaking care, a thoroughness, an energy and a persistence which were as admirable as they were rare. He deemed no labor too arduous, if it but even hinted of success, and in the words he knew there was none synonymous with despair. Thus of all the legislators I ever met, with one possible exception, he was the most thoroughly acquainted with the legislation of the State for the last twenty years. While no lawyer, he was familiar with all the Code except those details which treat of mere procedure of courts, and his opinion of the constitutionality of a measure could in nearly all cases be relied on as well as if it were the utterance of a judge.

But the chief characteristic of his political achievements was its practicalness. Like the born politician—the man who governs and rules—he knew how to sacrifice the small, the unessential, to obtain the greater, the useful, the important.

There are, as I take it, three classes of politicians. There are those who are politicians merely; who are in office for office; who, bright of intellect and wary as serpents, watch the drift of public sentiment in order that they may anticipate and use it; who have no convictions but those of their electors, "who spread shift the silken sails of cowardice to catch every veering breeze of popular applause." These are not men. They are political barometers. They are mere registers of other men's thoughts. Mr. Madison was not of these.

Next there are the idealists, the men of clear and far-reaching vision—the followers of the perfect. These men stand far up on the heights, and God touches their eyes with his unsealing fingers. Beholding all the wonders of the paradise land to be, they will have nothing less perfect. They call upon the masses to come up to their heights and cry, like the nun to Sir Percival, for them to see what they have seen, and feel what they have felt. But the multitude far below in the darkness name them fools and dreamers, and heed not their call. But bye and bye the morning breaks on the multitude, and then he who when alive was the dreamer becomes the prophet, and his words, once called ravings, become at last a nation's creed. Such men are the highest type. They have in them the most of God; but they are not the most useful. Mr. Madison was not of these.

There is then the third class. The members of this class sum up in themselves the feelings, thoughts and aspiration of the average man. Men sometimes mistakenly call them demagogues, because they so uniformly express the thoughts of the populace and agree with it in its most unreasoning changes. This is a grave wrong. They do not change with the populace for policy, but they change thus, because they are of the people and sum up in themselves the feelings of the people, and are influenced by the same circumstances and causes which have wrought the change in their co-peers.

These are the practical, the useful men. These are the men who enact their measures into law and stamp their policies on the nation. They are not too far ahead to have followers, and yet are too progressive to belong to the obstructers of the evolutionary process which through ages lifts men to ever higher and better planes. These are the most useful class of public men, and it was as an eminent type of this class that Mr. Madison impressed all thoughtful observers who were honored with his acquaintance.

The practicalness of his mind, exhibited on all occasions, is yet best seen in his assessment law—the law which he regarded as the pride of his legislative career. This law no seeker after the perfect, no one who aimed at equal, exact justice would have supported for a moment. Knowing that not even two acres of land were alike in value, much less whole counties, the idealist would have spurned any arbitrary classification which made lands of different value pay the same taxes. But a great problem was to be met, a wrong was to be corrected, and as an ideal, a perfectly correct solution was impossible; and so Mr. Madison, with the common sense which was his dower, did not, because he could not achieve absolute success, refuse to labor at all, but recognizing his limitation, approximated as near to success as possible, and while he did not enact the perfect law, he did enact the best law, that is the law which under the existing conditions gave the best results.

Therefore, I desire to endorse especially, that portion of the resolution which speaks of his usefulness as a legislator.

When one we have loved, or one whom we have admired, who has played a leading role in the mad and motley drama we call life, makes his final exit from this stage-like world, we are accustomed to mourn, and deeper still is the sorrow that wrings our heart and brims our eyes with the mist of tears, when his exit comes in the full flush of life e'er the silver gleams above the brow or the chill of age creeps into the heart.

And yet, Mr. Speaker, this should not be. They die well who die young. It is best, doubly and trebly blest, while the cup which life holds to the lips is yet sweet with the wine of youth, and knows no least drop of gall, while the music of the heart is jangled by no least cadence of woe to pass into the peaceful palace of rest.

We are accustomed to think of the dead as lost, and as dead; and yet we know that nothing is lost, that nothing dies. Whatever is, has always been, and shall ever be. Not the tiniest atom moulding the humblest weed that fringes the wayside dust, not the despised particle of matter in the stones a beggar spurns beneath his unshod feet but have existed always, and will exist forever. Likewise the force that through some song-bird's honeyed throat makes the "common air blossom into melody;" no less than the Titan energy which drives the wheeling suns of the universe through their golden courses, is immortal.

Much more, then, shall that wonderful force, the soul, the personality which combines and compels into the human form the various and opposing elements which make the human body, elude the corrupting touch of death and mock the baffled clutches of the grave. This idea of immortality is man's most precious possession, his most splendid achievement. In olden days it was dim and uncertain as the first streaks of the winter's dawn. It is even so dimly taught in the Old Testament that the most scholarly sect of the ancient Jews, the Sadducees, utterly rejected all doctrine of spirit and immortality. And it is only at the end of the Nineteenth century, when the spirit of love is thrilling the heart of man as never before, that there is arising among men the belief of an immortality of joy for each and all. Paley says that should a being who had never known man find a watch, he could from it construct an accurate idea of him who made it. And so from the universe, from our own hearts, we reason up to God, and construct an imperfect, but as far as it extends, an accurate image of His mind and His intentions; and it is on this reasoning, unanswerable in its argument and its logic, that modern man builds his palace of eternal joy.

Thus, as we behold the universe, with its flaming worlds and cycling suns in their intermingling paths of fire, ever racing onward and yet never colliding—when we see the earth with its wonders of beauty, with its scarlet shafts of the sunset, with its trooping glories of flowers, with its rolling seas of harvest, with its fringing forest, we judge that its creator, God, must surpass us, His creatures, in all attributes. “Have we power?” says Browning, “it sinks appalled before Omnipotence. Have we foresight? It shrivels to nothingness before the foresight of Him who planned in the myriad ages ago the least as well as the most important event that occurs to-day.” If, then, we are surpassed in foresight, in wisdom and in power, is it not reasonable to argue, to affirm, to believe that we are surpassed by Him also in every attribute of our being? Now, then, one of the strongest attributes of our being is the love of our fellow-man, is the desire to promote his happiness, to do whatever will conduce to man’s welfare. If it were possible for any one of us by the lifting of a finger, by the raising of a hand could banish woe from the world, who would leave the finger unlifted, the hand unwaved? If, then, our love for man is great, God’s love for man must be greater, and surpass our love as far as his power and wisdom surpasses our power and wisdom. If, therefore, after this life we would (if but our power equaled our love) give to each and all a new life, a better life, a life in which each and all might rectify and atone and expiate the errors and mistakes and the sins of this life and approximate more and more to the perfections of God, and bye and bye attain a state of perfect and unruffled joy, much more then will God do this for the humblest and weakest and most erring that stumbles in the darkness now. No one creature has He created whom He does not need in His great universe; no one soul, though its sins be as scarlet, though they be red like crimson, but shall some day expiate all its crimes, become white like snow and see His face.

Hence when the dead leave us, we know it is well, that it is best for them, for us; and that there is no single spot in the universe, and not a single moment of time when they and we are not in the keeping of God and under the sheltering wing of His love.

Though our brother legislator never more shall be with us here, enlightening us with his wisdom, cheering us with his courage, and sweetening life for us with his love, we feel that in some place, we know not where, he is still co-operating with God in the evolution of the universe, he is striving in the battle for the perfection of the universe.

So then, we can, while still thinking sadly of his memory, yet cherish it without bitterness, exclaiming with the profoundest of our poets and singers:

Praised be the fathomless universe
For life, for joys for objects and knowledge curious,
For love, sweet love—but praise! praise! praise!
For the sure enwinding arms of cool enfolding death!

On motion, the resolutions were adopted by a rising vote.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
January 11, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN: On the 14 day of February, 1893, in the Circuit Court of Hinds county, second district, J. E. Halliday, a youth of about 18 years of age, plead guilty to an indictment for the crime of arson, and under the law the judge was compelled to sentence him to a term in the penitentiary. Although, perhaps, technically guilty, the offense was so trivial that the judge, Hon. J. B. Chrisman, sentenced him to serve one day in the State penitentiary. Under the provisions of section 124 of the Constitution, which requires a petition for pardon to be published thirty days in a newspaper before it can be granted, no relief could be given by the Executive. I respectfully recommend that the right of suffrage be restored to this young man, the said J. E. Halliday, in the manner prescribed by section 253 of the Constitution.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Governor's private secretary presented to the House the following:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 15, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to present for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to-wit:

I recommend an amendment of section 142 of the Annotated Code, in relation to attachments for debts not due. Also an amendment to chapter 81 of said Code, so as to provide for service of process on non-residents.

If, under the provisions of the Constitution, which limits the action of the Legislature to appropriation and revenue bills, it is understood that you cannot legislate upon the compensation of tax assessors, I respectfully submit for your consideration the question of increasing their compensation. It is claimed for the assessors that the reduction of their pay under the operation of the Annotated Code is such as to render the compensation totally inadequate for the service required. If this is found to be true, I shall cheerfully co-operate with you in providing fair and reasonable compensation for tax assessors.

By the burning of the court houses of the counties of Holmes and Lincoln, most, if not all, the books and records of these counties were lost, and some special legislation is necessary to supply the Law Reports and other books indispensable to the county library, and to restore the records of said counties, which should be done with the least possible expense to the tax-payers and others interested in the records. I recommend that you take into consideration the necessities of any and all other counties in which the books and records have been destroyed, and provide for them in the same manner. The recording of deeds and other instruments required by law to be recorded, is an item of considerable magnitude, and aggregates a large amount in the county. The parties have once paid the legal fees for recording their deeds, and it is but just to them that provision be made for restoring the records at the least possible cost.

I also submit for your consideration the repeal of an act entitled "An act to authorize the sheriff of Marshall county to employ a janitor for the court house of said county," approved January 21, 1882.

By request of the Committee on Roads, Ferries and Bridges, of the House of Representatives, I submit for your consideration and such amendments as you may deem necessary, to sections 8928, 8934 and 8985 of the Annotated Code of Mississippi.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., JANUARY 15, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to-wit:

A bill to refund out of the State Treasury to J. G. Collier, of Sunflower county, and B. F. Phillips, of Marshall county, such amounts of the money paid by them into the State Treasury for lands purchased from the Land Commissioner as may be just and equitable, it being alleged that the lands were forfeited to the State for taxes without any intentional default on their part, and transferred from the office of the Auditor of Public Accounts to that of the Land Commissioner without their knowledge. I submit the matter without recommendation, and suggest that it may be competent to include these, with any other cases of like character that may exist, in an amendment to Chapter 78 of the Annotated Code, authorizing the Land Commissioner to re-convey lands in certain cases, with the approval of the Attorney-General and the Governor, as recommended in my biennial message to your honorable body.

I recommend, also, that the amount paid into the State Treasury by George O. Elms, of Opelousas, La., for land purchased from the Land Commissioner for which he received no title, be refunded to him, together with interest and fee paid for patent.

I submit, also, the claim of D. H. Wallace, of Holmes county, for amount paid by him into the State Treasury for the privilege of dealing in malt liquors, of which privilege he was deprived by legislative enactment, and recommend that the same be refunded to him.

A bill to authorize the Board of Supervisors of Warren county to refund to J. M. A. Brennan, tax collector of said county, certain moneys erroneously paid by him into the county treasury. Also to authorize the Board of Supervisors of Warren county to reimburse Bernard Forster for expenses incurred in pursuing and causing the arrest of fugitive criminals from said county.

A bill to authorize the board of supervisors of Neshoba county to compensate J. N. Jackson and W. S. Stribbling for services rendered as teachers of public schools in said county; also to authorize the board of supervisors of Lincoln county to transfer from the county funds to the school fund of said county four hundred and twelve dollars, which amount was improperly paid into the treasury to the credit of the county fund, and which is due to the teachers of said county for services rendered.

A bill to authorize the board of supervisors of Tishomingo county to pay out of the county treasury certain amounts due the county superintendent and teachers of schools in said county, for conducting and teaching the public schools. Also a bill to authorize the superintendent of education of Yalobusha county to pay certain outstanding warrants overdrawn on the Chickasaw school fund for the year 1893, amounting to two hundred and eleven dollars, out of the Chickasaw school fund for the year 1894.

A bill to authorize the levy and collection of school tax upon lands lying within the corporate limits—a separate school district—of Pass Christian, for the year 1894, the assessor of Harrison county having failed to make separate rolls of the lands without and within the limits of said town. In this condition it is claimed that no school tax can be collected on these lands without the legislation suggested.

A bill to authorize the city of Meridian, by its corporate authorities, to purchase the franchises and water-works property owned and operated in and near said city by the corporation known as the "Meridian Water Works Company, and to provide for the payment therefor.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

REPORT OF SPECIAL JOINT COMMITTEE.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of Mississippi:

GENTLEMEN: Your joint committee, to whom was referred the matter of investigating the affairs of the several educational institutions of the State, supported in whole or in part by it, beg leave to report:

UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI.

At this institution there are in attendance one hundred and fifty-eight students (158), a list of whom is herewith filed, marked Exhibit A. We find there is nothing to arouse a suspicion that the spirit or practice of nepotism prevails in this institution. We believe that it is well managed; that a very high standard of education is maintained and a most excellent work is being accomplished. It is an institution which ranks with the best of the land, and one which should be fostered by the State and its citizens.

We most heartily commend it to the favorable consideration of your honorable body, and recommend a liberal appropriation therefor.

A. & M. COLLEGE.

We have also inquired into the management of this institution, and find that its attendance is two hundred and forty-two students. A detailed statement of the names and post-office addresses is herewith filed as part of this report, marked Exhibit B. We find no trace of nepotism in this institution. It is well managed and doing a good work in its particular line, and we recommend a liberal appropriation for its support.

INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE AND COLLEGE.

We have diligently inquired into the work and management of this institution and find :

ATTENDANCE.

The attendance for 1892 and 1893 was two hundred and eighty-seven. The attendance of the session of 1893 and 1894 is two hundred and seventy-three. A detailed statement of the number of students from each county for the two sessions mentioned is filed Exhibit C to this report. A detailed statement of the number of students from each county for each session since the school was organized is filed Exhibit D, to this report. These exhibits show that every county in the State has patronized this school except Greene and Itawamba. Under the law, there are four hundred free scholarships, apportioned to the various counties in proportion to the white educable children in each county, and there are class-room accommodations for four hundred pupils; but there are dormitory accommodations for only about two hundred, for this reason: one-half of the students apportioned to each county are allotted to the dormitories, and the other half are required to board outside of the college. In the event any county fails to send in its full quota of students, the president of the college is required by law to fill the vacancies thus caused by such eligible students from other counties as apply for admission.

During each session there are some counties which fail to take all their scholarships, and thus, during each session, the management is forced by law to admit more students than are allotted to them in the first instance. As the school is in Columbus, Lowndes county furnishes more students than any other county in the State, and more than the quota allotted to it. A large number of these are daughters of families who have moved to Columbus from other counties to get the benefit of the school, and they are but temporary residents there. Notwithstanding these facts, Lowndes county does not have its quota of girls in the dormitory. Most of them board at their homes and are day pupils in the college. At no time have all of the four hundred free scholarships been taken.

So it is clear that the management are not only compelled by law to admit the extra number of girls from Lowndes county, but the admission of the same in no way interfered with or abridged the rights of girls from other counties, and in no way added to the expense of the State. In fact these extra girls by matriculation and music fees contribute to the support of the college.

We further find that no girl entitled to scholarship has ever been denied admission, and that the girls have never been required to take the full course in order to get the benefit of the industrial branches.

PURPOSES OF THE SCHOOL.

The law establishing this school had a dual purpose, and this dual purpose has been specially provided for in every subsequent statute in reference thereto. That is to say the establishment of two great schools in one: First, an Industrial Institute in which our daughters might be taught industrial arts, such as telegraphy, painting, designing, stenography, typewriting, engraving, wood carving, book-keeping, dressmaking, and fancy, practical and general needlework, etc., by which to fit them for the practical industries of life.

The other part of this dual organization is a "College for the education of white girls in the arts and sciences," embracing all the higher branches of academic and collegiate studies, such as are taught in the most advanced schools of learning.

The intention was to provide for girls an industrial department in lieu of the agricultural college for boys, and a college department corresponding to the State University.

We find that all the purposes for which the Industrial Institute and College was created, have been fully met so far as provided for by State appropriations. That the institution is in no way being diverted from the purposes for which it was founded. The industrial features are in no sense neglected or minimized. Everything reasonable seems to have been done to preserve and advance all the industrial branches and to elevate and dignify all the practical labors and duties of our women.

We regard this institution, as now organized, as a necessity to our State and one of the proudest monuments she has ever erected.

It is one of the best and cheapest schools in the United States, and is specially adapted to the needs of the poor girls of Mississippi.

NEPOTISM.

That Miss M. J. S. Callaway, Mistress of Mathematics, is a cousin of Mrs. Critz, the wife of Judge Frank A. Critz, one of the trustees, but Miss Callaway was elected eight years before said trustee was appointed, and he had nothing whatever to do with her election to the position she now holds.

We further find that Miss Minnie Pasley, Mistress of Latin, is a niece of Dr. Williamson, one of the board of trustees, but the investigation shows that Misses Callaway and Pasley are teachers of preeminent ability and qualifications. Miss Callaway has been distinguished as a teacher for more than twenty years, and is fully abreast with the more improved methods of modern times. Miss Pasley has for many years made Latin a speciality. She graduated in this school, then took a post graduate Latin course in the State University, and afterwards a special Latin course in Harvard University.

Your committee therefore concludes that such are the superior merits of both of these ladies in their chosen specialties, that there is not the slightest suspicion that nepotism has any influence in their selection. These are the only cases of relationship between the teachers and the trustees.

We endorse the action of the board of trustees and commend them for their wisdom and fidelity.

We endorse in unmeasured terms the faculty of this institution, and cannot too highly commend them for the faithful discharge of their trust.

We recommend an appropriation sufficient to meet all the needs of this school.

Your committee made no effort to investigate the affairs of the Alcorn A. & M. College, for the reason that a special joint committee has been appointed for that purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

J. C. TOTTEN,
Chairman Senate Committee and Joint Committee.

J. W. T. FALKNER,
Acting Chairman on part of the House.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 19, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: Notice is hereby given that I have this day accepted the resignation of Hon. E. C. Walthall as Senator in the Congress of the United States from the State of Mississippi for the term ending March 3rd, 1895, to take effect on the 24th day of the present month (January 24, 1894).

I suggest that the necessary steps be taken for the election of his successor, in accordance with the provisions of section 3696 of the Annotated Code of Mississippi.

In conveying to you this intelligence, and the motives which have actuated the distinguished Senator, I prefer using his own language, and therefore accompany this communication with a copy of the letter giving his reasons, transmitted to me with the resignation.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

SENATE CHAMBER, WASHINGTON, }
January 17, 1894. }

Hon. J. M. Stone, Governor of Mississippi :

MY DEAR SIR: The condition of my health compels me to seek a milder climate for the remainder of the winter season.

The alternative is presented me of resigning my present position or absenting myself from my post of duty at a time when it is important that our State should have two Senators in their seats.

It best accords with my sense of public obligation to pursue the former course, and I trust that it may seem to my constituents, as it does to me, that in adopting it I am affording them the highest proof of my appreciation of their confidence and good will.

I am indebted to the people of Mississippi for the highest honors in their gift, repeatedly bestowed under circumstances which greatly enhance their value in my estimation.

To hold to the high trust which they have committed to me when unable from any cause to discharge its duties according to my own standard of faithful public service, would be an unfit return for their generosity and fidelity.

Therefore, I enclose you my resignation and beg, through you, to repeat to the people of the State the expression of my gratitude and obligation for their kindness, constancy and support.

I can take no action now in relation to the senatorial term beginning March 4, 1896, for which I was elected in January, 1892. Eminent statesmen and lawyers here to whose conclusion I can find no answer, advise me that I have no such present connection with that term as warrants me in dealing with it before it commences.

When I may lawfully act in that matter I shall be governed, as I am now in surrendering my commission for the current term, by what shall appear to be my duty to the people of Mississippi under the conditions existing at that time.

Your friend, and obedient servant,

E. C. WALTHALL.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed to inform the House that the Senate has passed the following entitled bills, viz:

S. B. No. 70, An act to authorize the Board of Levee Commissioners for Yazoo-Mississippi Delta to bond their officers and employes and Levee tax collectors in guarantee companies.

S. B. No. 69, An act to repeal section 3 of An act to incorporate the Board of Levee Commissioners of Yazoo and Mississippi Delta, and for other purposes, approved February 28, 1884.

S. B. No. 68, An act to authorize Board of Levee Commissioners of the Yazoo and Mississippi Delta, to appropriate and pay over to the Inter-State River Improvement and Levee Association the sum of $1,560, and for other purposes.

WM. HENRY, Secretary.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Governor's Private Secretary delivered to the House the following message:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS, January 20, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I hereby submit for your consideration, and such action as you deem proper, the following matters, to wit:

An amendmeat to section 816 of the Annotated Code of Mississippi so as to require coroner's inquest only when there were no eye witnesses to the killing or sudden death.

To amend section 1122 of said code so as to increase the alternative imprisonment in case of non-payment of fine and cost in convictions for gaming. The fine may be five hundred dollars, yet in default of fine and cost the maximum imprisonment is twenty days.

Sections 1909, 1910 and 1911, in relation to partnership estates, should be amended so as to protect the rights of the surviving partner.

Section 1960 should be so amended as to provide for a bill of review against the guardian as well as the executor or administrator. Section 2021, paragraph (a), so as to compel the payment of all taxes on or before the 15th of December, or the payment of the ten per centum damages upon all payments after that date.

Section 2854, it is claimed, operates injuriously in many and perhaps in all the counties of the State, by relieving from jury service all who may have been overseers of public roads within twelve months. These are usually the best and most intelligent citizens, and there seems to be no good reason why they should be disqualified for jury service. The grand jurors are selected by drawing fifty names from a common box, and from those fifty are drawn twenty for the grand jury. Those best qualified are often excused for some cause or other, and thus those least qualified not unfrequently make up the grand jury. Moreover, by this means it often happens that all the grand jury comes from one section of the county, while the other sections or districts are unrepresented, leaving the criminals of the unrepresented portions of the county unmolested.

It has been suggested by able jurists that the evil complained of might be remedied by a jury commission composed of three members to be appointed for one or two years, one by the circuit judge, one by the chancellor and the other by the president of the board of supervisors. The commission to meet on the 1st of January of each year, select a sufficient number of competent persons to serve as grand jurors for the year and put their names in a box; then select a sufficient number of persons competent to serve as petit jurors for the year and put their names in another box. The grand jurors to be drawn by the judge or clerk from the grand jury box, and the petit jurors from the petit jury box in the same way. I will sanction any measure looking to the improvement of the jury service.

Respectfully submitted,

J. M. STONE.

The Governor's message was referred to Special Committee to Apportion Governor's Message.

Mr. Eckles offered the following :

Be it Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, that it is the sense of this Legislature that the ten percent tax imposed by the National government on State bank issues should be repealed, and that the Senators and Representatives in Congress from Mississippi are hereby requested to use their best efforts to secure the repeal of said tax.

Mr. Potter moved to indefinitely postpone the resolution.

Mr. Glover moved the previous question on the adoption of the motion to indefinitely postpone, which was sustained, and the resolution was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Cook offered the following :

WHEREAS, We have learned with profound regret of the resignation of Gen. E. C. Walthall of his seat in the United States Senate ; and

WHEREAS, We believe that simple justice to him and to the people demands a formal recognition of his great services ; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That we unanimously endorse his course in the Senate, and recognize his entire fidelity to the trust committed to him, and commend him for his prompt response to the sentiments of his people in all the great questions upon which he has been called to act.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Governor's Private Secretary delivered to the House the following messages:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
JACKSON, MISS., January 20, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to wit:

A bill to protect Government lights and light houses on the navigable waters of this State.

A bill to amend section 8 of an Act to incorporate the Vicksburg Electric Railway Company, approved March 6, 1888. I am somewhat doubtful of the power of the Legislature under the Constitution to amend this charter, but submit the question for your consideration and decision without recommendation.

A bill to repeal chapter 278 of the Acts of 1890, an act to provide for the better working of the public roads of Panola county, and for other purposes, approved February 19, 1890.

A bill to exempt the property of temperance organizations and societies, necessary for their purposes, from taxation, State, county and municipal.

A bill to amend section 4151 of the Annotated Code, by inserting after the word "loan," in the tenth line, the words "as the same appears of record in his office," or such other amendment as may conform to this idea.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 22, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to recommend that section 2719 of the Annotated Code be amended so as to read as follows:

"There shall be a lien for the purchase money of all personal property, but it shall attach only whilst the property remains in the hands of the first purchaser."

I also recommend the re-enactment of section 1767 of the Code of 1880, in relation to property fraudulently conveyed.

Respectfully submitted,
J. M. STONE.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 22, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to wit:

A bill to refund to Cyrus Newkirk money paid by him into the State Treasury for lands purchased from the State for which he received no title. The amount claimed is $725.79, $490.72 of which is purchase money and $235.07 is interest. It is not stated whether the fees for patents are included in these figures or not. It appears that these lands were conveyed to Cyrus Newkirk not less than eight years ago, and that there were pre-existing titles of many years standing, yet no steps were taken to test the conflicting titles, so far as the papers disclose, until the year 1893, and then under a law enacted several years subsequent to the purchase of the lands by Mr. Newkirk, to-wit: section 2588 of the Annotated Code. I submit the question whether this section can be made to apply to a transaction which took place six or seven years before the law was enacted. Of course, Mr. Newkirk having paid his money for the lands, and having been evicted of his title, should be reimbursed, but not without careful investigation of all the circumstances attending the transactions.

A bill to provide for the making of official and quasi official bonds in this State, by guarantee companies, in accordance with section 82 of the Constitution, will meet my approval, and is submitted for your consideration.

Respectfully,
J. M. STONE.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 20, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to present for your consideration, and for such action as you may think proper, the following matters, to wit:

Appropriations out of the State Treasury for the following purposes:

To refund to J. C. Howard, of Claiborne county, one hundred and fifty dollars, or so much as may be due him on account of money improperly collected by the tax collector of said county for the privilege of selling whisky by the gallon.

To refund to J. H. Wilburn, of Yalobusha county, out of the State Treasury, fifty dollars, or so much as may be just, for taxes overpaid; and to refund to D. R. Hearn, of Madison county, eleven dollars and fifty cents, for taxes overpaid.

To compensate the Illinois Central Railroad Company for transporting two companies of the Mississippi National Guard from Crystal Springs and Hazlehurst to Brookhaven, in May, 1893, to prevent riot and bloodshed, and to maintain the law.

In my biennial message I stated that the railroad company had refunded to me the money paid for transporting these companies, but finding that the claim has been filed with the Adjutant-General to be presented to your honorable body for allowance, it would seem that the money was refunded to me because there was no appropriation for that purpose, and that the company would look to the Legislature for compensation. I recommend the necessary appropriation for the payment of this claim.

On the 22d of April, 1893, the troops of the National Guard were, by request of the Sheriff, ordered to report to him for duty at Scranton, Jackson county, to protect prisoners from violence, and demand has been made for compensation for services rendered. I submit the matter to your judgment without recommendation.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
JACKSON, MISS., January 22, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN: I respectfully submit for your consideration a question often asked of Mississippians, the inability of which to answer sometimes confuses their sense of patriotic ardor and puts their State pride before a point of interrogation. That question is "What is the Coat of Arms of Mississippi; what is your State Flag?"

The humiliating answer is, "We have no Coat of Arms; we have no State Flag!"

Prior to the year 1861 there seems to have been no action taken on these subjects. In that year a convention of the people of Mississippi did adopt a Coat of Arms and Flag for the State. But in August, 1865, another convention was in session, and on the 23d of that month the Ordinance of 1861, creating a Coat of Arms and State Flag, was abrogated, the Coat of Arms and State Flag abolished, and since that time the State has had neither.

The Coat of Arms adopted was :

"A magnolia tree containing a nest of eagles, which are being defended by the mother bird from the attack of a serpent ; a bale of cotton, plow, steamboat, citizen-soldier, fortifications and cannon, with motto : 'Istis Defensoribus.'"

The flag was :

I present the matter, and recommend that a Coat of Arms and State Flag be adopted.

J. M. STONE.

Report of Committee on Judiciary :

MR. SPEAKER: The Committee on Judiciary has had under consideration the following bills referred to them and have instructed me to report them back with the following recommendations, to-wit :

No. 53, an Act to amend section 2178 of the Annotated Code of Mississippi so as to authorize the cession of jurisdiction to the United States over all lands acquired by the United States for the purpose of making, building or constructing levees, canals, or any other works in connection with the improvement of rivers and harbors, and for other purposes.

Your Committee recommend that the title to same is sufficient and that the bill do pass.

H. B. No. 83, entitled an Act to amend section 2178 of the Annotated Code of 1892 ceding certain acquired lands to the United States.

That the title is sufficient and that the bill do not pass.

Find the title sufficient and recommend that the committee substitute do pass.

LANCASTER, Chairman.

And your committee recommend that said bill be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS. }
January 25, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to-wit :

A bill to amend section 2056 of the Annotated Code so as to authorize the stock law put in force in parts of two or more townships or other than township and range lines, and to authorize additions of any parts of a county or counties to that or those in which the stock law is now or may hereafter be declared in force.

A bill for the relief of Mrs. M. E. Clarke of Lee county, from the consequences of the default of W. J. Lacey in the payment of privilege taxes as a lawyer and to render enforceable a certain contract made by the late firm of Lacey & Clark with Alice McIver, which contract is now the property of the said Mrs. M. E. Clarke.

A bill to refund to J. C. Carter, sheriff of Prentiss county, twenty-five dollars for privilege taxes overpaid into the State treasury.

I also submit for your consideration the claim of H. D. Camerson, of Lauderdale county, formerly special agent of the State in the location and survey of Lowry Island, for moneys paid into the State treasury, as he alleges, improperly, and under protest. Respectfully,

The committee also offered to amend by adding in section 2, after the word "hospital," in the eleventh line, the following: "And the place of residence of each." Which was also adopted.

MINORITY REPORT.

MR. SPEAKER—The undersigned, a minority of the Appropriations Committee, beg leave to dissent from the action of the majority in reference to the appropriation made to the Vicksburg Hospital.

After mature deliberation we are of the opinion that the State will have done its whole duty in the premises when it shall have contributed to the support of this institution the same amounts allowed for the years 1892 and 1893.

The minority therefore recommend that the Vicksburg Hospital be given $7,500 for 1894 and $7,500 for the year 1895, to be expended under the provisions and restrictions appended to the appropriation bill for this institution the past two years.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI,
JACKSON, January 29, 1894. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration, and for such action as you may deem proper, the following matters, to-wit :

A bill to repeal sections 1948 and 2224 of the Annotated Code, and to repeal sections 2196 and 2197 of the Annotated Code, or to substitute section 2111 of the Code of 1880 for the latter two sections. It is apprehended that 1948 and 2224 may lead to much trouble and complication in the affairs of minors in the hands of guardians.

A bill to amend section 1076 so as to read as follows : "If any person sentenced to the Penitentiary for a term less than for life shall escape therefrom, or shall escape from custody before or after confinement therein, he shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment in such prison for a term not exceeding five years, to commence from and after the expiration of the original term of imprisonment, as extended in consequence of such escape."

It has been held that the word "break," in the second line of the section, implies force or violence, and that unless force or violence is employed by the prisoner he is not liable to indictment under this section. I do not accept this construction of the law, but recommend that all doubt be removed by the adoption of the amendment suggested. I was informed by the district attorney that C. O. Summers, the express robber, escaped indictment at the present term of circuit court in Jackson by reason of construction mentioned.

I also submit for your consideration the propriety of so amending the Insurance laws as to prohibit any insurance company that belongs to an insurance trust or association, the purpose of which is to fix uniform rates for all companies, from doing business in this State.

Respectfully,

J. M. STONE.

At 12:40, on motion of Mr. Talbert, the House adjourned until 10 o'clock A. M. to-morrow.

Whereupon, Messrs. B. R. Farr, Z. P. Stutts, and Wm. McSwine, having received a majority of all the votes cast, were declared by the Speaker duly and lawfully elected as Commissioners to purchase a penitentiary farm, or farms, for the State of Mississippi.

MR. SPEAKER—The undersigned members of the House, having construed the Constitution for ourselves, decline to participate in the election of Commissioners to purchase a penitentiary farm, for the following reasons:

1st. We believe the penitentiary bill is in conflict with that clause of section 69, Art. IV, of the Constitution which forbids legislation being engrafted on an appropriation bill.

2d. We believe the election of members of this body as said Commissioners is violative of the letter and spirit of section 45, Art. IV, of the Constitution, which provides that "No Senator or Representative, during the term for which he was elected, shall be eligible to any office of profit which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which have been increased, during the time such Senator or Representative was in office, except to such offices as may be filled by an election of the people."

3d. We believe the Constitution not only prohibits this body from electing its own members to any position of profit created by it, but the organic law, in our judgment, precludes the Legislature from electing anybody to serve as Penitentiary Commissioners. Section 99, Art. IV, of the Constitution reads:

"The Legislature shall not elect any other than its own officers, State Librarian, and United States Senators; but this section shall not prohibit the Legislature from appointing Presidential electors."

4th. We believe the selection of Commissioners under the provisions of the penitentiary bill is not only illegal, but it incurs an unnecessary charge against the tax-payers, which should have been obviated by requiring the duties assigned to your Commissioners at $5.00 each per day and expenses paid, to be performed by the body of Control, whose members are already paid stipulated salaries.

Mr. Stowers of Jefferson offered the following:

Resolved, That during the remainder of this session no member of this House be allowed to speak more than five minutes at one time.

Mr. Dinsmore moved to amend by striking out "five" and insert in lieu thereof "two and a half." Adopted.

The resolution, as amended, was then adopted.

On motion of Mr. Street, the following was ordered spread on the Journal:

FEBRUARY 8, 1894.

Hon. J. M. Stone, Governor, etc.

SIR—Responding to your communication of this date, requesting our opinion "whether it is competent for the legislature to elect the commissioners charged with the duty of selecting the farm (penitentiary), and if so, whether it is prohibited from selecting its own members," we say, we have considered the matter, and are of the opinion that neither section 45 nor section 99 of the Constitution applies, because the commissioners provided for are not officers within the contemplation of the Constitution; although it seems quite clear that the spirit of the constitutional inhibition mentioned is against selection of legislators under such circumstances.

The service to be rendered by the commissioners partake more of the nature of an employment for the accomplishment of a particular object than of an office, and is of a very transient nature, and will terminate with the performance of the duty assigned; wherefore, we conclude that the commissioners will be employes merely, and not officers. The decisions in our own State and elsewhere are numerous in support of our view.

We have the honor to subscribe ourselves,

J. A. P. CAMPBELL,
TIM E. COOPER,
THOS. H. WOODS.

Report of Committee on Alcorn A. and M. College:

MR. SPEAKER: Your Special Committee having had under consideration the affairs of the Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College, have instructed me to report as fol-lows:

Your committee has examined ten witnesses. The exami-nation was full, complete and searching; the statement of each witness was taken down in full, and your committee beg to have same considered a part of this report. That from the testimony submitted, your committee is of the opinion and beg leave to so report, that there has been considerable friction and bickering in the workings of the faculty of this institution since 1890, at which time it appears that the faculty became divided into factions, antagonistic to each other in such a degree as to preclude the idea of harmony—one faction led by the president, and the other by certain professors and tutors; this spirit of contention it appears continued to grow for three years, rather than diminish.

Your committee is of the opinion, that while neither party or faction, was guilty of any direct infraction of the rules and regulations governing the institution, such a potent spirit of discord and contention had grown up between the factions that the ends and purposes for which the institution was established, could not have been subserved while both factions remained at the College. To have retained this entire faculty, in the judgment of the committee would have been unwise and detrimental to the best interests of the institution, And while the committee does not undertake to say what teacher, or teachers, should have been removed, it is clearly of the opinion that the removal of some one of these discordant factors was necessary to harmony and unity of action in the management and control of the institution. And that the action of the board of trustees in the premises was prompted by a sincere desire to promote the interests of the institution. And your committee is of the opinion that the affairs of said institution are now in good condition, and that the purposes of its creation are being efficiently and properly carried out.

Respectfully submitted,

W. H. MAYBIN, Chairman,
SAM. HINTON,
GEO. W. BUTLER.

Report of Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers:

MR. SPEAKER—Your Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers beg leave to report that through sub-committees of the joint committee it has performed the duty assigned them as far as it was practicable to do in the limited time at the disposal of the committee. The committee herewith submits as part of the report, the reports of the sub-committees, and respectfully requests that the same be accepted as the report of your joint committee.

Respectfully submitted,

E. V. SOUDDER,

Chairman Senate Committee.

J. R. KING,

Chairman House Committee.

To the Chairman and Members of the Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers:

GENTLEMEN—We, your sub-committee to investigate the offices of State Treasurer and Revenue Agent, have made as careful an examination as the time at our command would permit, and beg leave to report:

That on the 8th day of February, 1894, we examined the books of the State Treasurer and found him charged with one hundred and seventy-six thousand three hundred and eighty-six and 66-100 dollars. Upon actual count of the money in the money vaults, we find and are pleased to so report, the sum of one hundred and seventy-six thousand three hundred and eighty-six and 77-100 dollars cash on hand. The books of the Treasurer are a model for simplicity and clearness, and are neatly and accurately kept.

E. V. SOUDDER,

A. M. BYRD,

On part of Senate.

J. D. DOSS,

P. G. WALTON,

SAM HINTON,

On part of House.

To the Joint Committee to Inspect State Officers :

The undersigned having been appointed a sub-committee to investigate the offices of Auditor of Public Accounts and Secretary of State, would respectfully report as follows :

The committee hereby refer to their report made on the same subjects, as will be found in the Senate Journal, pages 801 and 802, and House Journal, pages 963-4-5-6, of 1892, and now, as, then, ask leave to say that owing to limited time and other duties more urgent upon the floor of the Legislature, it is a matter of regret that they are not prepared to say that they have been able to give that strict examination which can alone make the report accurate. So far as we could ascertain, both offices are well kept and efficiently administered.

Respectfully submitted,

S. B. WATTS,

JAMES T. HARRISON,

On part of Senate.

JNO. Y. MURRY,

JNO. W. WATSON,

D. PUCKETT,

On part of House.

The books in the office of the State Revenue Agent are correct. They show that the officer stands charged with $11,587.26. Of this amount he paid into the Treasury of the State, counties, towns, and levees the sum of $9423.29, for which he has proper vouchers. The balance, $2103.97, to make up the gross amount, is credited on his commission, to which, under the law, he is entitled.

Respectfully submitted,

E. V. SOUDDER,

A. M. BYRD,

On part of Senate.

J. D. DOSS,

On part of House.

Hon. E. N. Scudder, Chairman on part of Senate, and Hon. J. R. Key, Chairman on part of House, of the Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers :

Your sub-committee to investigate the State Land Office has the honor to report as follows :

1. The conduct of this office is thoroughly business-like. A record is kept of every transaction, however small.

2. This committee two years ago recommended that a sufficient appropriation be made to bind, keep and protect plats, field-notes, government patents and other records invaluable to the State, that were in horrible condition. The appropriation made therefor has been wisely, judiciously, and economically handled, the whole of it not being consumed. These records are now in splendid fix and give the Land Office a wholly different appearance from that formerly presented by its predecessor, the Swamp Land Office. The Commissioner, in his report to the Legislature, details at length the work done in this connection, and it has been well done.

3. The report of the Commissioner is full and complete. It says that the State has nearly 500,000 acres of land, and is due many thousands of acres more from the government.

4. The Commissioner recommends, as does also the Governor, that steps be taken by the Legislature to protect the State's domain from the further spoliation of timber thieves and trespassers, and that means be provided for the classification of lands, that proper valuation may be fixed thereon, in which recommendation your committee heartily concurs.

Respectfully submitted,

C. KENDRICK,
On part of Senate.
J. H. GARDNER,
On part of House.

To Joint Committee to Investigate State Offices :

Your sub-committee to investigate the books, papers, etc., of the State Board of Health, beg leave to report as follows :

We have made a careful examination of the books, vouchers, and records in the office of the secretary of the State Board of Health. The secretary, Dr. Wirt Johnston, is a careful and painstaking book-keeper. We find every item of expense accounted for, and everything connected with the office satisfactory.

C. KENDRICK,
On part of Senate.
J. H. GARDNER,
On part of House.

To the Chairman and Members of the Senate and House Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers:

GENTLEMEN—Your sub-committee to make investigation of the office of Superintendent of Education have investigated the books of the office and find them correct, with items of expenditures supported by proper vouchers.

The total enrollment of educable children in the years 1892 and 1898 was 334,928. The total enumeration of educable children for 1892 and 1898 was 456,005, as reported by the teachers, and 516,183 as reported by the assessors. The amount of money expended on public education in 1890 and 1891 was $1,169,088. The amount in the years 1891 and 1892 was $1,268,581. The amount so expended in 1892 and 1898, $1,192,844.

At the request of the Superintendent we examined into and checked the accounts of receipts and expenditures of the Peabody Normal Institutes, and find the total receipts to have been $2,640, of which $2,626.60 was expended in salaries of instructors (receipts found on file in his office). The balance, $13.40, was expended for incidental itemized claims on file.

E. V. SCUDDER,
Chairman Senate Committee.
J. D. DOSS,
Chairman House Committee.

The report of the Joint Committee to Investigate State Officers was adopted.

The Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings made report, as follows:

MR. SPEAKER—Your Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings beg leave to report to your honorable body that we have examined the Capitol building to the best of our ability and the facilities at hand, and find it in not only a very bad condition, but emphatically unsafe for the accommodation of large audiences.

By the information given us two years ago by Mr. Toggerson, the architect of Meridian, we were enabled to find many defects in the building that would have otherwise escaped detection. The construction of the building, when new, was the very best in every detail except the foundation, and were a new, concrete, solid foundation put under it now, the defects in that direction would be corrected. But the greatest dangers now appear to be above the second story, caused primarily by the imperfect foundation, and to render it safe the upper portion will have to be thoroughly overhauled.

We do not submit this report with a view to securing any legislation passed at this session looking to the carrying out of the suggestions herein made, but simply as your Committee on the subject, to notify the public that their Capitol is in a very unsafe, dangerous condition, and that the assembling of large congregations within its walls should be avoided, for, if continued, may result in a lamentable disaster—in the loss of many lives. We should heed the many warnings of the past and cease to occupy condemned buildings.

Brick and mortar possess wonderful strength when in perfect condition, but when disintegration sets in there is nothing more dangerous or treacherous.

Respectfully submitted,

H. C. TURNER, Chairman.

Amend section 3380, Code of 1892, so as to read as follows: On each building and loan association which loans money exclusively to its members, whose stock or shares represent monthly payments not exceeding five hundred dollars, $25.00.

On same whose stock or shares represent monthly payments of five hundred dollars or more, and less than one thousand dollars, $50.00.

Which shall be in lieu of all other taxes, whether State, county or municipal, except on real estate; but any association may pay a privilege tax of five hundred dollars, and establish branches at will. But only ten shares of stock, exclusive of the shares deposited with the association for loans, shall be exempt from taxation for any one person, and all shares in excess of ten owned by one person shall be taxed as solvent credits.

Each building and loan association which does not require members to forfeit any part of their payments for inability or failure to pay dues, incorporated by any foreign country or other State of the Union, or whose principal office and domicile is not within this State, which shall establish agencies or branches in this State, shall be liable to a separate tax on each branch office or agency, and each of said agencies, or places of doing business or collecting dues, shall be considered, for the purpose of taxation, as a separate and distinct building and loan association, and shall pay the tax above required.

Mr. Street moved to strike out all after the word "estate" down to and including the word "will," and insert at the end of the section the following: "But any association may pay a privilege tax of five hundred dollars and establish branches at will," which was adopted.
